

The Pinehurst Outlook

PINEHURST, MOORE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA.

SHARP CONTRASTS THESE!

Philadelphia Snow-Bound With Thermometer Way Below Zero.

Pinehurst Clear and Beautiful With Mercury at Freezing Only During Morning Hours of Single Day.

THE familiar advertising catchline: "We are advertised by our Loving Friends", has always been true of Pinehurst, but it is given new meaning as its friends increase. Manager Creamer of The Holly Inn has just received a pretty tribute from a Philadelphian who was a guest during the recent inauguration tournament.

The letter in part is as follows:
Philadelphia, Penn.,
Jan. 8, 1904.
A. I. CREAMER, Manager,
The Holly Inn,
Pinehurst, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—Upon leaving your hospitable house last Saturday night, I arrived in this city several hours later on the following morning, finding the temperature at zero and all the discomforts of a northern winter. These are in such sharp contrasts with the wonderful weather that I left at Pinehurst, that I am curious to know what your thermometer stood at during Sunday and Monday last, and shall be much obliged if you will let me know. The subject was discussed with much interest by a number of us on the train on Sunday morning.

I was so much interested in and pleased with what I saw at Pinehurst, that I thought it only fair to write you a short letter on the subject, which you will be at liberty to use as you see fit, excepting that I should not care to have my name appear in print, although you are quite at liberty to refer individuals to me by letter as freely as you have occasion.

Let me say that I never was more agreeably surprised than I was in Pinehurst. Not only I did not expect to find such a fine elevation, but also I had no idea that so perfect a climate could be found in that latitude, or I might almost say, in any other latitude in this country in January. Being myself of Yankee birth and education—although a resident for than thirty years of this city—I have taken, perhaps, more than usual interest in observing the details of the scheme which the proprietor of Pinehurst so wisely conceived and is so excellently conducting. Whatever may be the actual business experience of the enterprise in its first few years, I think there can be no doubt that it will grow to be very profitable to the owner, and—what is still more important—a source of great benefit to the great number of persons in this country who are obliged to seek relief from the rigors of a northern winter.

I consider the landscape gardening a remarkable piece of work, and giving to the locality all in the way of natural beauties that art could give. The sanitary arrangements seem to be of the best order, and the important details of heat-unique, as it is an endeavor to introduce into the heart of the South, a village conducted with all the ingenuity, skill and refinement of a New England enterprise, free from the abomination of liquor and other troubles that too frequently surround such undertakings.

I have recommended a number of friends to visit you; and I have no doubt that a great many people from both this city and other Northern places would be glad to be among your visitors if they knew how well the journey would be repaid. Pure air, pure water, and a climate mild enough to make out-door life enjoyable, form a strong combination in these days of a growing luxury and leisure.

ing, lighting and plumbing, leaving almost no room for criticism. Such a work as has been done, although a business enterprise, is, nevertheless, essentially benevolent, and I trust the owner may live to see his best hopes realized in all respects.

I feel almost sure that the weather during the week must have been quite above the average for perfection, still it is clear that in any circumstances you must have a dry invigorating air and all the conditions that make for health and comfort.

So far as the golf course is concerned, it is the first southern one that I have tried, and it certainly surpassed by best expectations * * * *
As a whole the enterprise struck me as the first part of the letter will doubtless, be a surprise to the writer. The weather of tournament week was ideal, but it varied little from that which is the general rule here being only a few degrees warmer. On the Sunday morning following the tournament, (the time referred to by the writer and when the North was snow-bound with the thermometer twenty degrees below zero) was cold and clear with the thermometer at about thirty-two in the morning and some ten degrees higher at noon. The following day was warmer and Tuesday found the climate back at its old standard of excellence. During the entire cold spell in the North there was no sign of snow, sleet or rain here.
