PLAY CARDS IN COSTUME

"Disguise Party" at The Berkshire Furnishes Fun for Many.

The Colored Mammy, Queen of Hearts, Summer Girl and Other Notables Were Present.

Social pleasures have always been an enjoyable part of life at The Berkshire, but under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sherrard this feature is being made even more of than in the past, and no week will be allowed to pass without its evenings of entertainment.

A unique feature of the week which is a pleasant prophecy for the winter, was a "Disguise Party" in which guests of the hotel and many of the Villagers took part.

Each participant appeared in disguise, a fascinating gypsy girl in short black skirt, red waist and purple sash, bedecked with ribbons and beads.

Miss Taggart of New York, wore a fetching girls costume of pink, with short skirt, and large white sunbonnet.

Mrs. Sherrard was very swagger in a black silk costume with long tailor made coat and powdered hair.

Among the men Mr. E. Albion Bailey of Boston, was easily the prize winner as a summer girl. He wore a long white skirt, pink Eton jacket and large white sun hat, and he carried a good-sized pine tree as a fan.

Mr. Hugh C. Anderson of Pittsburg, Pa., made an amusing ragpicker in a costume somewhat incongruous.

Dr. F. W. Bradbury played the part of the Japanese lady in a black kimono.

Mr. Sherrard was the veiled lady in black walking skirt, sheet and butchers smock.

Mrs. E. G. Hutchinson of Lancaster, Pa., and Mrs. W. J. Wilgus of New York, were the judges.

THE MUSIC HALL OF THE CAROLINA—THE SCENE OF MANY BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIRS DURING THE SEASON.

and during the evening which was devoted to hearts, the members of the company figured out very carefully who everybody else was, at the same time confident that they were escaping detection, but there were some amusing surprises when the final unmasking came, and no end of amusement resulted from the strange conceptions seen.

SOME OF THE COSTUMES.

Prizes were given for the best costumes and Miss C. Josephine Durkee of Philadelphia, was a winner among the women, with her impersonation of a colored mammy. She wore a gown of red, white and black calico and carried a basket of chocolates which she dispensed among the guests.

Mrs. F. H. Pasell of New Bedford, Mass., was the queen of hearts in a striking costume of black lace, adorned with red hearts.

Miss Mary Lovett of Philadelphia, was

The prize winners at the hearts party were Miss Lovett, who took the first women's prize, and Mrs. Sherrard the consolation; Mr. Sherrard who took the first men's prize, and Mr. D. N. Clark of Westville, Conn., the consolation.
