HOBBIES FOR HEALTH.

They are the Equal of Sleep, Food and Sunshine.

The best thing in the world for nerves is sleep, the next proper food, the third fresh air and sunshine, but as good as any one of these is a hobby and Pinehurst provides for all four.

How often one hears the expression, "Oh, that is So-and-so's hobby," spoken rather disparagingly. It is the tendency of the average mind to regard a person who has a pronounced enthusiasm as a species of harmless lunatic, rather to be pitied. The truth of the matter is, that any one who has any especial fad is greatly to be envied, as it probably provides more interest and amusement for its possessor than anything else. Any decided interest in life, whether it is dignified by the name of an occupation or is simply an enthusiasm, or even mentioned slightly as a fad, is eminently desirable.

"I have never seen a genuine collector

Dr. Conan Doyle's First Case.

Conan Doyle, on being asked why he gave up the practice of medicine, related this story which took place one cold night and was the doctor's first call:

The jangle of the door-bell woke me from a sound sleep, and shivering and yawning, I put my head out of the window and said:

"Who's there?"

"Doctor," said a voice, "can you come to Peter Smith's house at once? His youngest girl has took a dose of laudanum by mistake for paregoric, and we're afraid she'll die."

"All right; I'll come," I said.

I dressed and tramped three miles through the cold and the wet to Smith's. Twice on the way I fell on the icy pavement, and once my hat blew off, and I was half an hour finding it. Finally I reached Smith's. The house was dark—shutters all closed—not a light. I rang the bell. No answer. At last a head stuck itself gingerly out of the window

FOR AN IDLE MOMENT.

Madge is waiting for Tom. Where is he?

that is not happy when he is allowed by circumstances to gratify his tastes," remarked a student of human nature, "and a bent in that direction should always be encouraged. It is a curious phase of our humanity that we all work diligently to make provision for our material needs when we are old, and quite neglect to store up mental resources that will interest and amuse us until we are called hence."

Hobbies help one to forget sorrow and give pleasure in the present. They are among the best things in life, promoters of health, peace, and happiness and the best of all are those which takes us out-of-doors.

The Christmas or Holiday Number of The PINEHURST OUTLOOK will be a very attractive number, with a three color cover as its special feature.

in the third story.

"Be you Doctor Doyle?" it said.

"Yes, let me in."

"Oh, no need to come in, doctor," said the head. "Child's all right. Sleeping quiet."

"But how much laudanum did you give it."

"Only two drops, doctor. Not enough to hurt a cat. Guess I better take my head in now. Night air is cold. Sorry to have troubled you."

I buttoned up my coat and turned homeward, trying to stifle my anger. Suddenly the window was raised again, and the same voice cried:

"Doctor! I say, doctor!"

I hurried back. Perhaps the child had taken a turn for the worse.

"Well, what do you want?" I said.

The voice made answer:

"Ye won't charge nothing for this visit, will ye?"
