

ROUND IN SEVENTY-ONE

Professional Alex Ross Cuts Local Golf Course Record One Stroke.

Score Equals if Not Surpasses Travis' Phenomenal Sixty-nine--Interesting Comparative Figures.

HE seventy-one made by Professional Alex Ross recently, is generally regarded by golfers here, in view of this season's lengthening of the course as the equal if not one stroke better, than the phenomenal sixty-nine, made by Walter J. Travis, the international amateur champion, last year. The two cards form an interesting basis for comparison:

Killed With His Own Weapon.

There is no doubt, a popular belief that the claim of insanity as a defense in murder cases is often used to defeat the ends of justice. That is evidently the view of the writer of this little squib from the Philadelphia Telegraph:

A young attorney had secured for his client, an Irishman charged with murder, a verdict of acquittal on the ground of temporary insanity.

When he met his client again he said: "Well, Hogan, isn't it about time you gave me that extra two hundred dollars?" "Faith, an' what two hoondred is thot?"

"The two hundred dollars you promised if I saved that worthless neck of yours?"

"Sure an' did Oi promise thot? Oi don't ramimber."

"Why certainly you promised it to me."

Hogan scratched his head for a minute and then with a smile outlawed the claim with the remark:

"Oh, well, but you know Oi was crazy thin"—Youth's Companion.
