BERKSHIRE TRIMS CAROLINA

The score by innings:

VILLAGE—4	0	0	0	3	2	0	0	0—9

STAR PLAYERS HERE.

The Village team is to be immensely strengthened by four stars: Young "Cy" Young, of the Boston Nationals, and a pitcher of national reputation; Jack Slatery, the Milwaukee catcher, formerly of the Boston Americans; "Mike" Lynch, the Baltimore short stop; and Donert, third baseman for Worcester, Mass.

What do you think of this for a quartette!

In future there will be three Village teams—the Village, Holly Inn and Berkshire—which, with The Carolinas and Southern Pines, gives a local league of five nines.

Sumpin' doin'! Well, I guess!

NOTES.

Harry MacCorry of The Carolina and Patrick O'Connor of the Village, are both on the "crippled" list; the former with a broken bone in his hand, and the latter with a sprained ankle; but both are doing nicely, and hope to be in the fun again soon.

Subscription papers will be started during the coming week, and season grandstand tickets put on sale in aid of the Baseball Association Fund.

The new uniforms are here and they are very natty; worn for the first time during the week.

NICHOLLS AND JOLLY.

They Defeat Ross Brothers in Best Ball Match Play.

A thirty-six hole professional match play best ball contest between Professionals Gilbert Nicholls and Jack Jolly, and the Ross brothers, interested a big gallery recently, the former pair pulling through winners upon the thirty-sixth hole by a score of one up.

Nicholls and Jolly had the match well in hand at the end of the morning round with a score of three up, twelve of the eighteen holes being halved, and they kept their lead well in the afternoon, having their opponents four down and five to play at the thirty-first, when the local pair made a brilliant rally, reducing the score to one down at the sixteenth, the seventeenth and eighteenth being halved, the match being lost on the home green by the failure of Donald to make a long putt which refused to go down by a very narrow margin.

A high wind added several strokes to the cards, which but for that would have been very low.

ROYAL WINCHESTER.

First of Miss Olney's Library Talks Much Enjoyed.

The first of Miss Elizabeth Olney's "Library Talks," Friday evening, drew together a congenial and appreciative audience which augurs well for the series.

If a long line of distinguished ancestors is coveted by members of our patriotic societies, said Miss Olney, what must be the pride of one who can boast that his family lived for generations in Royal Winchester, with its nineteen hundred years of existence.

The Winchester schoolboy can dig up early Roman relics in his own garden—he might even find a weapon belonging to one of Julius Caesar's legions if he went deep enough. He can see in the cathedral the tombs of the early Saxon kings. The great Alfred went to school in Winchester, his teacher being the famous Bishop Swithin who became later the patron saint of the Cathedral. Having heard that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day—July 15—it is liable to rain for the next forty days we are glad that his birthday did not chance to be the early part of this week.

Here in Winchester lived and reigned William the Norman, William his son, and many of his successors. Here was founded five hundred years ago the first of the great public schools of England, which is still flourishing. Winchester Cathedral is the longest one in Europe except St. Peter's at Rome, and no other English Church is so rich in monuments except Westminster Abbey.

Fine photographs added much to the interest of the lecture. This is Miss Olney's third season of library talks, and Royal Winchester certainly proved an auspicious beginning to the present course.
