CHURCH SERVICE POPULAR

MR. AND MRS. JUDKINS.

They Are Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw at Carolina Dinner.

Among the most delightful of the week's more formal affairs at The Carolina was a dinner given Thursday evening in honor of Manager Charles A. Judkins of the Mount Kineo House, and Mrs. Judkins, by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Shaw of Bath, Maine. Covers were laid for nine and the table daintily decorated with carnations, a souvenir sachet card resting at each plate.

An amusing surprise of the evening was the presentation of loving cups to Mr. Judkins and Mrs. Jillson in recognition of their unrivaled ability as a team in mixed foursome golf in matches against Mr. Shaw and Miss Priest.

AMONG the attractions of the Village which this year have shown a marked increase in popularity, are the church services, and this largely through the efforts and popularity of Resident Protestant Minister Alleyne Carleton Howell.

The congregations have increased until they more than double the past, upon several occasions the attendance exceeding the supply of seats, particularly noticeable being the men who are now conspicuous by their numbers.

What almost might be termed a new departure, so marked has been the growth, is the Sunday school in which a large circle of young people and children have become interested as teachers and pupils. Renewed interest has also been awakened in the choir, through systematic rehearsals and organization.

The result has been most gratifying financial support, through the popularity of church services, and unification of the varied religious interests of the community. His general interest in the various outdoor sports and recreations has also added much as well as his personality, combining happily with his marked ability in conducting the service. Perhaps no feature has done more to bring this about than the fact that Mr. Howell has adapted himself so generally to the peculiar conditions existing here, with the result that the church services may truly be said to mark a new era in Village religious life, and which has done much towards the marked success of the present interest.

Archery Attractive Innovation.

The introduction of archery at the target pistol butts is an attractive innovation which is interesting both men and women. Already plans are being made for a series of tournaments.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Munch, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Jillson and Miss Lucy Priest.

MRS. JUDKINS WINS.

Leads the Field in Thursday's Rifle Tournament for Women.

A novelty in the way of a handicap rifle shoot for women interested a large field Thursday afternoon, details being in the hands of a committee including Miss Winants, Miss Fuller and Miss Barroll.

Mrs. C. A. Judkins of Kineo, Maine, led the field with a card of one hundred and nineteen, shooting from scratch and taking the gross score cup; Mrs. Dan G. Stucki of Buffalo, winning the net score prize with one hundred and thirteen, her handicap being twenty-five.

Other scores were: Miss Winants 25, 80; Miss Firth 0, 62; Miss Mullen 50, 104; Mrs. Fahey 50, 77; Mrs. Phelan 50, 70; Miss Fuller 50, 61; Miss O'Neil 50, 60; Miss Barroll 50, 56.

The success of the event has already led to plans for other similar shoots.
