Allan, Mrs. Leonard Tufts, the Misses McCormick, Rockwood, Check, Priest, Sewall, Humphrey, Beall, and Fuller; Messrs. Waters, Dillon, Mills, Stearns, Todd, Kirkpatrick, Paul Gardner, Ralph Gardner and Dr. Parker. Supper was followed by an evening of merrymaking.

MISS OLNEY'S LIBRARY TALKS.

King John First Considered in Shakespeare's Historical Plays.

The first of Miss Olney's Library Talks was given Wednesday morning in the cosy room of which she is the presiding genius. Shakespeare's historical plays are to be taken up, and King John was the first to be considered. Charts with personages, events, and subjects of the various acts and scenes were of much assistance, hanging where all could see them.

Miss Olney took up the principal personages one by one, following them through the various scenes in which they figure, and making of each a vivid character sketch. This method of treatment was decidedly novel and proved exceedingly interesting.

The second talk comes today, on Richard II, Henry IV and Henry V follow on Wednesday and Saturday, the 23d and 26th, and Henry VI closes the series on March 2. The hour is eleven o'clock.
