IN INTEREST OF PINEHURST

Professional D. J. Ross to Critically Study Old World Golf Courses.

Will Attend and Probably Participate in British Open Championship Scheduled for June 22nd.

PROFESSIONAL Donald J. Ross will spend two months or more abroad this summer, sailing May 28, giving critical attention to the world-famous golf courses of Great Britain and Ireland such as Prestwick, North Berwick, St. Andrews, Dornoch, Sandwich, Deal, Hoylake, Portrush, Laninch, Dollymount and many others in the interest of Pinehurst.

He will also attend and probably take part in the British Open Championship at St. Andrews, scheduled for June 22, thus embracing the opportunity to study the play of famous professionals over a high class course.

There are many new ideas in connection with lay out and construction, etc., to be studied and the best of these ideas are to be embodied at Pinehurst.

Rumor has had it that Alexander Ross would participate in the Open, but such is not the case. In this connection, however, his splendid record is interesting; the two rounds of 68 and 73, made in the United North and South Open Championship, but reflecting the game he has been playing all winter. This record, also, has been borne out in the Massachusetts Open Championships which he has won for four years past, defeating some of the best professionals in the country.

In this event Alex has only once scored higher than 300 strokes for 72 holes, and that was when he tied with Gilbert Nicholl and David Brown at Brae-Burn in 1907, with 302, later winning the play-off with a 73. He scored 290 at The Country Club in 1908, and duplicated that figure at Woodland last year. The other time that he won was at Wollaston in 1906, when he scored 297, and did a 69 the final round, overcoming a lead of eight strokes that Alec Campbell held at the end of the third round.

An average of 74.3 strokes per round has been made by Alex in the sixteen rounds of the State open Championships which he has won. His aggregate strokes for the 288 holes are 1179, or an average of 4.1 per hole, which comes pretty close being perfect golf.
