MATCH AND MEDAL HONORS

Maurice Risley is Double Winner in Annual Midwinter Golf Tourney

One Stroke to Good in Qualification
He Also Finds Work Cut Out for Him in Match Final

MATCH and medal honors in the eleventh annual Midwinter tournament were both won by Maurice Risley of the Atlantic City Country Club, who was up against a contest for each trophy, both in qualification and final. His eighty-two card captured the gold medal, with Robert Hunter of Wee Burn, George C. Dutton of Belmont, Harold Slater of Fox Hills and H. V. Seggerman of Englewood snug up in eighty-three. Progressing to the final with easy matches, he found a worthy opponent in C. L. Becker of the Woodland Golf Club, who was in the running until the last putt was holed. ¶ Making the turn in thirty-eight each, the pair started home all even, Risley holing a two from well off the green to tie the score on the ninth. A lost ball gave the Atlantic City expert the tenth, but he surrendered the eleventh, 6-5, and the Woodland golfer held his own with halves in 6-5-5-4 and 4 on the next five holes. Becker was in difficulty on the seventeenth, where Risley holed a par three, and he maintained the lead thus gained by halving the eighteenth for the hole, the match and the trophy.

Risley's semi-final was a six and five win from Harold Slater of Fox Hills, one of the favorites. In the second round he walked away from his clubmate, Dr. Theodore Senseman, with a score of eight and seven, and in the first round he was four up and three to play over H. G. White of Ridgewood. ¶ Becker's hardest match was his three and one win from George C. Dutton of Belmont, the match much closer than the score indicates. Two down at the turn the Woodland golfer won the tenth, lost the eleventh, took the twelfth and thirteenth to tie, halved the fourteenth, and won the next three holes. In the second round Stuyvesant Le Roy of Newport was the victim two down, and in the first round R. F. Robinson of St. Catherine's lost by three and two.

Dutton advanced to the semi-final as a result of a one up win in the keenest first division match of the week from Dr. C. H. Gardner, former Rhode Island champion. One down at the turn, Dutton rallied coming in, winning the tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes in 4-5 and 4, halving the thirteenth and fourteenth, and in 5's with a winning 3 on the fifteenth. Dormie three, Dr. Gardner came back for a win in 5 on the sixteenth and 3 on the seventeenth, but Dutton saved the match with a halve in 5 on the eighteenth.

Dr. Gardner was four up at the turn in his first round with Seggerman, who won the eleventh, fourteenth and sixteenth, coming in, but lost the fifteenth and the match on the seventeenth green in a halve. ¶ Slater and Z. T. Miller of Dunwoodie were going fast in the first round and they kept each other guessing to the home green which Slater won with a fast 4. All even at the turn, the players divided honors on the next two holes, Slater winning the twelfth, losing the thirteenth, winning the fourteenth, losing the fifteenth to a 3, and halving the sixteenth and seventeenth.

The President's consolation was a five and four win for W. H. Faust of the Buffalo Country Club from Seggerman, Faust advancing from a 20-hole victory over Robert Hunter of Wee Burn. All even at the turn, the tenth and eleventh were halved, Faust gaining the lead on the twelfth, maintaining with a halve on the thirteenth, losing the fourteenth to a 4, halving the fifteenth, Hunter gaining the lead with a 4 on the sixteenth. Faust saved the seventeenth for a halve in 3 with a 12-foot putt, and he tied the score, 5-6, on the home green. The nineteenth was a halve in 4 and the twentieth a win for Faust, 4-5. Hunter's first round with Dr. Senseman was a curious one. All even at the turn, the Wee Burn player won the first three holes and halved the thirteenth, but lost the last five holes and the match.

Two twenty-hole matches characterized second round play in the second division, W. J. Macdonald of Calumet defeating T. A. Ashley of Woodland, and C. B. Hudson of North Fork disposing of Tom Kelley of Southern Pines. ¶ One up at the turn, Macdonald won the tenth for the lead, halved the eleventh and twelfth, and became three up on the thirteenth. Hudson halved the next two holes and reduced the lead to dormie two on the sixteenth, but he lost the match with a halved seventeenth. ¶ Nip and tuck to the turn, Hudson halved the eighteenth and nineteenth, and won the

BOTH GOLF AND ROULETTE

Gambling Element Adds Zest to Play in Advertising Golf Tourney

R. M. Purves Leads Big Field of Ninety-six Contestants With Card of Eighty-eight

AN EVEN hundred contestants combined golf and "roulette" in Monday's qualification round of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests; golf because the affair was the annual event; roulette because a high wind made work on the putting-greens more or less of a "gamble." ¶ In the ninety-eight cards returned from which six sixteens qualified for the match play rounds which continued through Friday, there were also golfers and near-golfers, but scores ran close throughout all divisions in spite of the range afforded from eighty-eight, which headed the list, down to one hundred and thirty-seven which ended it.

In connection with qualification there was also a handicap, and gross and net prizes were awarded in two classes. In A class, which included the first division, R. M. Purves of Woodland was first with a gross card of eighty-eight; a quadruple tie at one hundred and one marking the limit of admission to the first flight. E. M. Alexander of Fox Hills was the winner of the net score
