that there is a difference in powders. So does the veteran sportsman—he makes it his business to know as much about powders as he does about game, dogs and guns. He knows that shells loaded with

HERCULES "INFALLIBLE" Smokeless Shotgun Powder

give uniformly good results.

Don't let chance or the dealer decide what powder goes into your shells. Study your requirements. Order the powder that suits your needs.

"Infallible" is a smokeless powder that is not injured by the wettest weather or extremes of temperature. Its high velocity means a longer shot when needed and not so much of a lead on your bird at other times.

Other "Infallible" characteristics are—even patterns, light recoil and breech pressure always within safety limits.

Send for beautiful calendar in colors—"The Game Bird of the Future." Suitable for framing. Address Dept.

A CHAT WITH SIMEON FORD

Famous Boniface Comments on Hotels, Guests, and Landlords

Simeon Ford has made a few observations on hotels, guests and landlords which awaken responsive chords in tourists. Here they are:

HOTELS—I asked Boldt how many colored folks patronized the Waldorf, and he said that he had seen only two in his restaurant, and when they glanced at the prices on his bill of fare they both turned white. The Bible says the leopard cannot change his spots, nor the Ethiopian his skin, but when that statement was made the Waldorf wasn't opened. The Waldorf can knock the spots out of anything, and I presume they would skin an Ethiopian there as quick as they would a white man.

GUESTS—The timid man stands in front of the hotel clerk, and the clerk affects to be oblivious of his presence and continues to relate an humorous anecdote to the commercial traveler. Finally the timid man plucks up courage to ask the clerk if he can get a room. The clerk, with a look of disdain, spins the register around, projects a pen at the timid man, and the timid man feels that really the proper thing for him to do would be to get off the earth. After the registering is done the clerk throws a key at the timid man and the African gentleman drags him away and slams him into the elevator. When he is in his room the colored gentleman brushes away the last spark of vitality that yet remains in him and leaves him in a condition of collapse.

LANDLORDS—Landlords would make brave soldiers. Suppose they had been asked to go up the line of San Juan—such men as Boldt of the Waldorf and Baumann of the Holland and Charley Delmonico and Louis Sherry—and that Teddy Roosevelt had given the order to charge. Don't you believe these fellows would have charged? If they had charged, the hearts of the Spaniards would have gone down into their boots. When these fellows charge, everybody has to go down into his sock.

"Hope Springs Eternal!"

The ruined sport was walking home from the races.

He had gambled his last cent on the ponies and was a total wreck, financially and emotionally.

He was a distinctly recognizable picture of despair.

He knew he would have no dinner.

So, in order to fool his stomach and make himself think he had fed, he reached his hand into his vest pocket to get a toothpick.

He felt something disk-shaped in between the lining and the cloth, below the pocket proper.

His heart stopped beating.

But it started again.

Digging vigorously, he recovered a 25-cent piece.

"Ah" he cried, joyfully, "help from an unexpected quarter!"
