Donald Ross Says:—

Inoculated Alphano is the ideal top dressing, and a perfect all-in-one fertilizer. Its use gives a putting green a true running surface without the use of a heavy roller.

his way through the invaders from many famous links, and making away with the Treasurer's Division. This was Fred Page from Aberdeen, wielding a Dreadnought of a Driver which completely concealed him from view. He left Harry Waring on the seventeenth green. He chased E. H. Wiswell of Englewood all the way home, where a tie score called for an extra hole, which he tucked away. And then he tackled Charlie Horton, settled him four and three and pinned on the medal:

J. E. Smith had little difficulty in keeping the Consolation prize in his possession.

FOURTH DIVISION PLAY

H. J. Frost of Siwanoy took home the trophy in the Fourth Division. He led J. K. Baker, hailing from Englewood through the final round by five and four. His hardest match was against W. A. Sandford, who held on stubbornly until the last sad putt went home. E. A. Bailey found James Barber of Englewood against him in at the finish of the consolation. Bailey won, five and three.

MAGOON'S DAY

Interest in the play of the fifth division centered around the performance of G. A. Magoon, the Oakmont player. He came into the finals going strong, after substantial victories over A. M. Banker of the Antlers and Ralph Lane from the Rockaway River. Here he was pitted against H. C. Davis of Woodland, who put up a game fight. It was decided in Magoon's favor on the last green.

J. D. C. Rumsey took the Consolation prize in this division from J. D. Gallagher of Glen Ridge.

There was a special handicap Consolation Division, in which some interesting play was developed, resulting in a victory for J. R. Towle of the Calumet Country Club.
