THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

Little Folks Entertain Themselves at the Carolina Thursday

Under the kindly guidance of Mrs. Frederic Claire Boustead and Miss Helen Patterson, and materially assisted by the Carolina orchestra, the little boys and girls of the cottage colony held high carnival in the ball room of the hotel last Thursday afternoon. It was positively the first appearance in public of a number of very successful and entertaining performances—as well as the first time that many of them ever took the role of audience.

Dancing and singing were on the cards, and were indulged in with all the fervor and abandon of youth and high spirits. And a very entertaining programme was provided by the talent assembled. Lillian Ross, ably seconded by Helen Waring, Mary Jane Moore and Marguerite Watson rendered a lullaby, handed on by them from their ancestors to their bric-a-brac children called "Slumber Song." George Hixson struck a responsive chord by the spirited recitation of the ancient favorite about "Little Fishes."

The occasion reflected the generous and martial spirit of the hour. Marguerite and Walter Watson sang the thrilling chorus of the Marseillaise in its native language, Hiram Mallison, Jr., declaimed a patriotic poem, "I Love my Flag," and the whole diminutive company joined in the refrain of the "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Children's dances and distributed favors completed the afternoon, which was graced by the presence of Frances Thomas, Dorothy Chapman, Louise Emery, Elizabeth Cheatham, Clarissa Metcalf, Algene Edson, Theodora Johnson, Winifred Hathaway, Annabella McNab, Helen Waring, Marguerite Watson, Lillian Ross, Mary Jane Moore, Julianne Waters, Virginia Pierce, Cory Page, James Tufts, Morton Eustis, Chick Denham, Buster Haywood, Lawrence Forsythe, Donald Dalton, Theo. Hoster, Benj. Langsdorf, Hathaway Watson, Anderson Page, Sumner Waters, Junior Pierce, Walter Watson, Philip Johnson, Hugh Carter, Junior Moore, Hiram Mallison, Jr., George Hixson, Clarence Edson, George Dunlap.
