COMING INTO ITS OWN

Flood Tide of Guests at the Carolina

The ball room of the Carolina was appropriated by the children of the village and their guests Thursday afternoon for their party, and great preparations for a Washington's Birthday dance were in progress just as we go to press. We shall give a further account of these affairs in our next issue. The coming of Spring in the Carolinas and the descent of the polar circle to the latitude of Sandy Hook has persuaded a long list of our old friends from Gotham to join the circle at the Club House. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate and Miss Marion Choate are here for several weeks' stay. Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols have broken away from the war business for a few days' rest. Commander Elia has returned with the Marquise Spinola as his guest. Raymond Balfe has commenced his perennial visit. And the tide from Boston is coming in. Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Wing, Miss Katherine Wing, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Proctor, Warren Manning, the landscape architect, head the list, which includes a long roll as follows:
