

The Week in Pinehurst

Members of the Sand Hills Polo Club line up before the camera. Pinehurst is taking up polo with renewed enthusiasm and expects to hold a Polo Tournament in connection with the Annual Horse Show in April. On the extreme left, Captain A. Loftus Bryan, who is in charge of polo this season.

SIR HUGO CUNLIFFE-OWEN and Lady Cunliffe-Owen came down from Washington for the week end for a short rest and recreation and registered at The Carolina last Saturday morning. We apologize for the miserable weather which greeted our distinguished guests.

LADY GREEN-PRICE and her sister, of Knighton, Wales, are registered at the Holly Inn for a two month's stay.

MRS. STEEL will leave for Liverpool sometime this week. She is registered at the Berkshire.

QUINTON PREECE, son of Godfrey Preece, the well known polo professional of Westbury, L. I., sails for England on March 10th to race in the June Derby against the Britishers. Quinton will ride the horses from the famous stables of Lord Rosebery. Quinton is only a youngster of seventeen. He started to ride when he was twelve years of age and is a remarkably good polo player as well as a jockey of experience.

THE WEEKLY DANCE party at the Holly Inn last Tuesday was well attended. Many of the cottage colony were among those to be found on the floor. Lunch was served in the lobby during intermission.

MR. EATON from New York is becoming quite adept at polo. Mr. Eaton is also fond of hunting and is often to be found among Mrs. Spencer's parties.

NOT SATISFIED with Thursday's hunting, Mrs. Spencer and a party of twenty, which included Miss O'Rourke, Miss Leath, Mr. and Mrs. Corwin, Mr. Horan, Mr. Rotain, Dr. Peters, Mrs. Esthers, Miss Lane, Mr. Eaton, Captain Bryan, Mr. Coffee and a few others, went out again on Saturday morning. The party did not go very far into the woods on this trip. They met so many foxes, they could not decide which trail to hit first.

MISS O'ROURKE, it seems, never gets tired of riding. In the morning she usually goes hunting and in the afternoon, if it isn't the race track, it's the bridle paths, but ride she must.

DR. J. P. TUNIS entertained at dinner Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Cheatham and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, at the Berkshire, on Friday.

HENRY. W. WANNER, of Syosset, L. I., and Roger Ward, of Montreal, Canada, seem to be very fond of tennis. Despite the bad weather conditions last week they were to be seen almost daily on the courts.

MRS. STUART BEEBE NORRIS, of New York City, has completely recovered from her illness of the past month. She feels the call of the golf links and is tempted by the echoes of that "jazz" band. Mrs. Norris will remain in Pinehurst until the end of the season.

MR. AND MRS. P. W. THOMSON and their son Eric, of St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, are here for a long stay, as guests at the Carolina.

WE ARE INFORMED that Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tinker will not occupy the Morganton Cottage as expected. Mrs. Tinker, it is rumored, is not well and will not be able to visit Pinehurst at all this season. Mrs. P. C. Thomas, of Rome, N. Y., has leased the cottage and will be ready to occupy it sometime this week. Mrs. Thomas is here accompanied by her daughter Louise. Mr. Thomas will arrive early in March.

MR. AND MRS. JAS. P. ANDERSON, of Philadelphia, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., was among the arrivals last week at the Carolina. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are expected to remain here for another two weeks.

MR. AND MRS. N. B. JONES are among those to register at the Holly

Inn in the past week. Mrs. Jones will be remembered by many as Miss Cummings, the well known singer.

MRS. W. B. DEAN, Jr., of St. Louis, arrived last week and is registered at the Carolina. She expects to stay here for some time.

AT THE GUN CLUB the Ladies' Shooting Contest this past week was won by Mrs. A. Astire, of New York, with the remarkably good score of 145. This equals the record made by Mrs. Lawrence Barr some weeks ago. Prize for second place went to Mrs. A. H. Corwin, of East Orange, N. J., who hit the target for 142. Mrs. J. E. Lewis, of Philadelphia, won third prize with 139 points.

ALTHOUGH Lt. Mitchell has spent most of the week overhauling his airplane his passenger list is almost as large as usual. He has taken up Mr. J. C. Platt, Mr. I. E. Rushmore, Mr. E. J. Ridgeway, Mr. M. H. Childs, Mr. A. G. Hannan, Mr. J. M. Simpson, all of New York City, Miss Eleanor C. Whiteley, of Baltimore, and her sister, Miss Mabel Whiteley, Miss Priscilla Kimball, of Bath, Maine, Mr. J. O. Christian, of Scranton, and Mrs. Dorothy B. Hunneman, of Boston, Mass.

MR. F. H. POUCH, of Brooklyn, is amongst the new arrivals at the Holly Inn. He is accompanied by his two daughters, Janet and Muriel and also by Miss G. Miller and Mr. Donald C. Alford, famous Princeton football player.

FEW OF THE COLONY who know Mr. Harold E. Porter, as a prolific writer of the most diverting sort of literature, think of him as an authority on Aerial Observation, a field in which he performed highly specialized service during the War. Mr. Porter revealed himself in this new role at the last meeting of the Pinehurst Forum, held on Sunday evening, February 15th, at the Country Club, when he chose this subject for his talk. He pointed out that the publicity granted the romantic activities of the pursuit pilot has put into the shade, the business of the observer, whose work during the Great War was every whit as dangerous and, from a military standpoint, infinitely more important. Mr. Porter discussed in some detail the process of aerial regulation of artillery fire and modern methods of reconnaissance photography. The latter made it possible to bring operation maps up to date hourly, and furnished the most reliable means of learning the conditions and modifications of the enemy's work, the result of bombardments, progress of an infantry attack, the location of hostile trench, field, and heavy artillery, and movements of men and material. The speaker cited as an example of the effectiveness of aerial photography the discovery of the super-guns employed by the Boches for the bombardment of Paris.

The meeting was attended by about seventy-five members of the Colony.

MR. AND MRS. A. T. MCDERMOTT are at the Carolina and promise to be with us for the next month. Mr. and Mrs. McDermott are very fond of horse back riding and a fox hunt is seldom started without these two representatives from Philadelphia being among the party.

ON TUESDAY PAST Mrs. George W. Towle, of Boston, Mass., entertained seven at a dinner at the Berkshire. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Merrill, of Boston, Mass., Mr. Charles B. Davis, of Lexington, Mass., Miss Helen Davis, Lexington, Mass., Mrs. Fowler, of Cambridge, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Conant, Boston, Mass.

ON SATURDAY Mr. J. M. Robinson, Manager of the Berkshire Hotel, entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. George Jenks, of Michigan, Mrs. Thersherd, also of Michigan, and Dr. R. Ward Taylor.
