HIGH ORDER OF RACING

Marks Christmas Day Meet of Jockey Club

Santa Claus and the Pinehurst Jockey Club distributed a bag of high-class racing at the Jockey Club course on Christmas Day which was marked by thrilling finishes, surprises, and a high order of racing. Nature contributed generously to the occasion with a bright, sunny afternoon, and a record attendance for the season responded to the call of King Horse and Nature. In addition to the scheduled events the program was interspersed with novel and amusing specialties which kept the big crowd in an uproar from beginning to end. The specialties included a Potato race, Jerusalem contest, Doughnut contest and a furious half-mile dash on mule-back between two of the long-eared variety ridden by Miss Dorothy Daggett and Mrs Evelyn P. Spencer, in which Mrs. Spencer's mount gained the decision after a cyclonic burst of speed in the run down the home stretch and after Miss Daggett's mount had run to the barn instead of the finish line.

In the regular order of racing, the greatest surprise of the day came with the running of the last race when F. L. Stevens uncorked a veritable speed marvel in his slashing young chestnut filly, Mary G. It was her first start at this meeting and she was opposed by Jo Jo and Ray-O' Light. Jo Jo had recently defeated Uncle Sand in a match race, and as Uncle Sand had been King of the sprinters up to that time, it looked as though Jo Jo had the race at his mercy. When the barrier was sprung, however, Mary G. flashed to the front with Jo Jo racing close up in second place. Mary G. stuck close to the rail and saved ground at all the turns, and it was apparent that she was running easily. Jo Jo was at her saddle all the way down the back stretch. Turning for home Jo Jo made a determined bid to displace the leader, but his rider elected to squeeze him through on the rail which merely served to cause considerable bumping in which Jo Jo suffered most. After the pair had straightened out again Jo Jo had lost too much ground in the bumping match and had to be content with second money.

High Olympus proved much better than ordinarily rated when he threatened to make a runaway affair of the six furlong dash and leave such good ones behind him as Uncle Sand and Machese. He was away to a winging start and increased his lead with every jump, but when Uncle Sand settled into his stride and set sail for the flying leader he gradually wore him down and got up just in time to nip High Olympus by a nose as the pair flashed under the wire. Machese was beaten off throughout.

The five and half furlong dash for non-winners was run strictly to form. Troben, who has been running close up to much better ones in previous starts, finally found a field that he could beat and easily accounted for first money. His Nibs, Wasseon and four others followed in the order named.

Adastra, who has been knocking at the door in the harness class in her last several starts, finally scored a win and defeated Cachato Watts, Zaquilla and some other good ones in the Class A Trot. Cachato Watts stepped away with the first heat in handy fashion and gave promise of repeating his victory of the week before, but the Jones mare was too fast for him in the remaining heats and second money was his lot. Zaquilla took the short end of the purse.
