

STEADY MAN

Sole and Heel

of Sturdy White Rubber

—the cone shoe is the logical successor of the spiked shoe

The truncated cones on the sole are positioned precisely where the stance comes - - under the ball of the foot.

These cones prevent slipping. They grip the soil. They never tear the turf or green.

Lighter than ordinary "spiked" shoes, they're thoroughly comfortable. Sewn to leather, Steady Man Soles and Heels do not "draw" the feet.

Unnecessary to change shoes for luncheon or between games. They do not disfigure rugs or floor.

Fine, too, for the tennis court, or yachting.

Easily attached to your friendly old shoes, at W. N. Foye's or at your own repair shop. Ask your club "Pro" for them. Or, a line to us will ensure your getting them.

COMMERCE SWEEPS HISTORIC SOHO AWAY

Two picturesque slices of old London, known to tens of thousands of Americans may soon be scooped away to satisfy the demands of commerce. Soho and the parish of St. Giles—or Seven Dials, as it is better known—are about to begin their passage into history and be converted into the most modern business district of the metropolis, possibly a second City of London.

Soho which probably derived its name from the Duke of Monmouth's famous battle-cry "Soho" at Sedgemoor, has experienced many vicissitudes of fortune. In the olden days regarded as one of the fashionable quarters of London, it gradually became the home of Bohemianism and the haunt of Sam Pepys and Goldsmith. To-day its dingy, uninviting streets are lined with French, Italian and Swiss restaurants, where Londoners and visitors may learn what the much-praised foreign cooking really is.

The whole district is now almost entirely inhabited by foreigners and is the favorite meeting place of the anarchists of the "tame" variety. For long it was looked upon as the equivalent of the Montmartre, but never at any time has it attained the attractiveness or liveliness of that gay Parisian quarter.

Employer: "George, I want to speak to you regarding your attentions to Miss Sweetly during office hours. I engaged you as billing clerk. No cooing was mentioned. That's all for the present."
—London Mail.

They have no ideas as to sport in Afghanistan, according to Sir Francis Younghusband. The famous Indian administrator told the Royal Geographical Society, now playing polo there, he was accidentally stunned by a blow on the head. On recovering he found that the local chief had put the "culprit" in irons, and said "Would you like him killed now or in the morning?"
