

FOURTH ANNUAL DOG SHOW, JANUARY 30-31

The Pinehurst Kennel Club has announced that the Fourth Annual Kennel Club Show will be held this season on January 30 and 31, instead of April as heretofore. The change in the time of holding the Show will be of interest to dog fanciers, for this year's event will follow closely the Midwinter Target tournament, which is set for January 16-21, and the annual Field Trials on January 23 to 27, and will afford contestants in the Target tournament an opportunity to bring along their bird dogs for the Field Trials and Dog Show. Pointers and Setters are among the leading classes in the Show.

A class for Beagle dogs has been added this season, making 19 breeds, and it is probable that owners will hold an informal trial among this breed exclusively.

Last season's show, in which Champion Lansdowne Sunflower, the beautiful greyhound entered by Mrs. B. F. Lewis, Jr., of Lansdowne, Pa., was adjudged best in show, brought out some of the country's most famous dogs, and from the standpoint of sporting dogs, was among the largest shows in America. There were 203 dogs and 372 entries in 106 classes. The show permitted of five championship points in seven different breeds as follows: Pointers, English Setters, American Fox-Hounds, Wire-haired Pointing Griffons, Shepherd dogs, Chow Chows, and Pomeranians.

SENIORS' TOURNAMENT

To Be Renewed This Year

An interesting feature of the Country Club's tournament schedule this season is the second renewal of the Seniors' tournament, which is set for February 16 and 17.

The conditions provide for players over 54 years of age; eighteen holes medal play each day, with prizes for best net each day and a gross prize for the best 36 holes.

The inauguration of this event last season brought out a field of 98 contestants, ranging in age from lads of fifty-five to middle-aged gentlemen in the upper seventies, and keen competition was in order throughout the two days' play. One of the most interesting contests of the tournament was the close race between the oldest two contestants, John S. Carley of Sharon, Pa., aged 78, and Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald of New York, who had only recently celebrated his seventy-fifth anniversary. Carley, the dean of the tournament, finally won out with a gross total of 221 for the two rounds as against 224 for Dr. MacDonald.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT AND AUDITOR'S OFFICE ESTABLISHED

To fill a long felt want for such service in Pinehurst, Paul Dana, formerly with Price Waterhouse and Company of New York, has opened an office in the bank building as public accountant and auditor.

In addition to this work Mr. Dana will act in an advisory capacity on income tax matters.

MANY CONVENTIONS TO BE HELD AT PINEHURST DURING SEASON

Thus early in November arrangements have been made for Pinehurst to be the headquarters of many conventions during the season.

The list starts with the South-Eastern Underwriters Association, which will gather at the Carolina on November 14 to 17 for its annual meeting and outing of golf. On December 2 and 3 the Cotton Manufacturers come for business session and recreation, and during the week of December 13 the Southern Surgical Association will hold forth for three days. Some 200 members and visiting delegates will attend this convention, and includes a number of the Nation's most eminent surgeons.

Early in January some 300 members of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests come for their annual frolic and golfing carnival. Their tournament program extends over the full week and includes practically every known variety of golfing contests, both for themselves and for the ladies that will be in the party.

ANNIE OAKLEY RETURNS FOR THE SEASON

The many ladies that visit Pinehurst during the season who are interested in rifle and pistol target shooting will be delighted to know that Annie Oakley (Mrs. F. E. Butler) has again established herself at Pinehurst for the winter and will resume her classes in shooting instruction at the Gun Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler arrived during the early part of November and are located at the Carolina. Mrs. Butler volunteers to again give free of charge to the ladies who visit here lessons in the art of rifle and pistol shooting. She has lost none of her magic with firearms as was demonstrated in her first public appearance this year during the Sand Hill Fair when she executed some new and seemingly impossible shots.

She has been helping the ladies to learn the proper handling of the rifle and pistol for several years, and as a consequence there is unusual interest in the sport and many of her pupils have acquired a skill in potting the bric-a-brac pigeon that would tax the ability of far more experienced hands to excel.

ITINERARY TAKES AUTOIST THROUGH PINEHURST

Recent announcement that the second annual A. L. A. Green Book tour would leave Boston on December 7, has created considerable interest in motor circles. The first tour left Boston last year on December 8, and reached Miami on December 24. Twenty-one cars participated in the tour, and the entire trip of over 1,800 miles was negotiated absolutely on schedule.

The route to be followed is via Worcester Springfield, New York, Newark, Harrisburg, Washington, Fredericksburg, Va., Richmond, Henderson, N. C., Raleigh, Pinehurst, Camden, S. C., Augusta, Ga., Macon and Jacksonville.
