

SEASON'S SPORTS PROGRAM AT PINEHURST

List of Principal Events

The tournament schedule at Pinehurst opened this season with the playing of the seventeenth annual Autumn tournament on November 9, 10, 11 and 12, followed by the second renewal of the Mid-South Amateur and Professional best-ball event on November 18 and 19. Practically every week until May will witness a hard struggle for honors in some event. Most every year the Country Club committee adds some new and interesting event to its program. The Mid-South had its first inception last year when it brought together one of the strongest fields of amateurs and professionals that ever competed in an event of its kind, and has been added as a permanent fixture to the yearly schedule of events. This year the annual Carolina Tournament for Women has been added, and is set for December 6, 7, 8 and 9.

A survey of the following will show the season to be replete with interesting events.

The Sandhills

The development of the Moore county Sandhills of North Carolina, with its famed winter resorts, its extensive peach orchards, its modern and progressive villages is one of the interesting romances of present day achievement.

The calendar year soon to close marks one of the greatest periods of new creation these Sandhills have ever seen.

In the Pinehurst neighborhood, including Mid-Pines, Knollwood, Southern Pines and other points in the vicinity about a million dollars' worth of building has been done. The new peach orchards that have come forward are worth the big end of another million. The Mid-Pines country club will in itself by the time it is ultimately completed cut a bad hole in a million dollar bill.

But the interesting fact is that the speed forward is now swifter than ever. Projects contemplated are bigger. The big day of the Pinehurst section is only now dawning.

The reason is that the causes that made all this phenomenal development are still as active as in the past, and that they have become known to a steadily increasing number of people.

The Pinehurst of to-day is an accomplishment, that of tomorrow will be a revelation. An ideal climate, close to the North, good roads, perfect railroad service, every modern convenience, the center of winter sports, congenial people, and only one night from New York.

Some day, and not far ahead, land in this favored section will be high-priced. To-day it is still cheap, and selling at low acreage prices.
