PARSON AND SHANNON LEAD QUALIFIERS IN

Mid-winter Tournament

Pinehurst's claim to the leadership as a winter golfing center was well supported on Wednesday of this week when more than 100 golfers teed off in the qualifying round of the annual Mid-winter tournament, members of congress enjoyed rounds on the links, four of the country's leading professionals played exhibition matches and twenty boys, all under 15 years of age, played the qualifying round of a tournament all their own.

Donald Parson and R. C. Shannon led the field in the qualifying round of the Midwinter with cards of 39-41-80 and tied, at that figure, for the medal. Thus it turned out that members of the Winter colony defended the reputation of the local golfers and retained the honors from those who came down just for the tournament. Others to finish close up in the first division and who are considered to be very much in the running for match play are J. D. Chapman who qualified in third place with a round of 82, and Wm. Cushing, I. S. Robeson and J. W. Robb, all of whom turned in qualifying cards of 84. Another triple tie resulted for next place in this division between E. L. Seofield, M. L. Fearney and F. T. Keating, while E. C. Beall, D. P. Willard and N. W. Peters tied, at 87, and made up the last three players in the first sixteen. Only seven strokes separated the first and last man in this division.

H. G. Waring who participated in the quadruple tie for last place in the first division lost out on the play-off and heads the field in the second sixteen.

All of the field played on the Number 2 course and qualified in five divisions, which will continue at match play throughout the week.

GEORGE T. DUNLAP, JR., WINS QUALIFYING ROUND

Of Boys' Tournament

All the young bloods around Pinehurst are growing up to be golfers, and following in the footsteps of their fathers some of the youngsters are playing golf that is not only remarkable for boys so young, but would bear comparison with the average rounds of the average adult golfer.

Twenty of these lads—all under 15 years of age—banded themselves together on Wednesday of this week and played the nine-hole qualifying round of the Christmas holiday tournament over the Number 3 course and will continue at match-play through the finals.

It is surprising to know that in order to make the first division the kids had to break 50 for the nine holes. Young George T. Dunlap, age 13, had the honor of repeating his last year's victory in this event and led the field with a round of 45—even 5's.

His card was 565 645 464—45.

Eugene Homans, age 12, was second at 46 and Forbes Wilson, age 11, and Walter Swoope, age 13, tied at 49. This quartette made up the first division.

Less than 50 for nine holes does not sound particularly impressive until one looks up the records and finds that out of more than 300 grown-up golfers who usually play in the Spring tournament here less than one-third go over the Number 3 course under the 100 mark in the qualifying round.

The boys qualified as follows:

George Dunlap Jr.	45
Eugene Homans	46
Forbes Wilson	49
Walter Swoope	49
F. C. Stevens Jr.	56
Kenneth McNeill	63
Clarence Edson	65
Richard Chapman	66
Irvin Swoope	67
John D. Chapman Jr.	68
Sherwood Merrill	69
Billy Fuller	74
Edward Marshall	80
Charles Swoope	83
William Parson	93
Marshall Heminway	95
George Parson	96
Jack Heminway	98
Leslie D. Pierce Jr.	126
John Bradford Armstrong	150

A CORRECTION

Through a typographical error in the article on the opening of the new club at Mid-Pines in our issue of December 22, the head lines gave the formal date of opening as January 18, whereas the article read Monday, January 16. The latter date, January 16, is correct and will mark the formal date of opening the club. A tournament, open to all amateurs, will be held there the following Wednesday, January 18.
