NOTES OF THE WEEK

Professor William R. Arnold of Harvard, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. North at their cottage, The Carteret, during the week past.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Jenks of Harbor Beach, Mich., came in during the week and have opened their charming home, White Shingles.

Mr. Elmer Pearson, General Manager of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., and Mrs. Pearson are making an extended visit to Pinehurst. They are registered at the Carolina.

That the drag-hunts are exceedingly popular is proven by the large number of riders who enjoy them each week. In the saddle last week were the Misses Marion and Margaret Lewis of Chicago, Evan B. Owen of Stamford, Ct., A. C. Pratt of Deep River, Ct., Dr. A. R. Gardner of New York, Gude Naumberg of New York, Miss Virginia Smith Wynnewood, Pa., Miss Grace Pierson, New York, James B. Waller, Chicago, Mrs. Evelyn P. Spencer and Mr. J. C. Thomas of Pinehurst.

Capt. and Mrs. A. T. Roberts give such gay little dinners that bring together congenial folk. Mrs. Roberts always has her dinner table festive with flowers for each of her guests, who were Mrs. Tracy Lewis and her sister, Miss Meecham, Mrs. Evelyn P. Spencer, Maj. Carlisle, Major Boone and Major Ranney.

Mrs. Stuart Patterson was hostess at a bridge and tea at the Carolina a few days since. Her guests included Mrs. H. O. Murphy, Mrs. George Magoon and Mrs. H. E. Anderson of Pittsburg, Mrs. T. E. Schwarz, Mrs. Tegethoff, Mrs. Bloodgood and Mrs. Boustead of New York, Mrs. Gilman of Cleveland, Mrs. Leslie Pierce and Mrs. Priest of Pinehurst, and Miss Helen Patterson of Plainfield, who assisted her mother in entertaining.

At the Club one afternoon we saw that Donald and Mrs. Parson had gathered about them for tea and dancing the John Chapmans, Captain and Mrs. Roberts, Major Ranney, Mrs. Tracy Lewis, Mrs. E. P. Spencer and Lucian Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hornblower, Mr. and Mrs. George Towle and Mr. and Mrs. George Jenks spent a happy evening with the W. B. Merrills, who entertain so much in a quiet, but wholly delightful fashion. Among these people an evening of conversation is worth while and restful, leaving a charming memory in retrospect.

Pinehurst has for a guest a unique figure in the person of John M. Ward, who for many years was a prominent figure in the National Baseball League and a man of energy and influence in the world of Baseball. Mr. Ward was the first professional ball-player to take up golf, to which he has transferred his skill, and is now a keen follower of the latter game. But for a severe illness he would be out on the links showing many of us how the game should be played. We trust Pinehurst air will restore him to his former vigor and ability to hit 'em straight.

The Steele Cottage, which the I. S. Robesons are making so charmingly homelike this winter, was the setting for an unusually attractive luncheon and bridge party last week. The party was in honor of Mrs. Frank Sage, one of Mrs. Robeson's house-guests from Rochester, N. Y. The luncheon was a delicious affair, after which the ladies played auction. Mrs. George N. Towle, Mrs. W. B. Merrill, Mrs. Sage, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Beall and Mrs. Keating were the guests, and Mrs. Keating and Miss Lucy Priest won the two sumptuous prizes.

A notable gathering was that of the auction and tea party given in honor of Mrs. J. C. Bailey of Weston, Mass., by Mrs. C. L. Bausher, Sr., in her charming home last week. Yellow, like reflected sunlight, was again the color scheme for decoration and one that met with gratifying success. Unique prizes went to Mrs. Homer H. Johnson, Mrs. George Towle and Mrs. W. B. Merrill. Among the guests were Mrs. L. E. Pierson, Mrs. Charles Smithers, Mrs. J. D. C. Rumsey, Mrs. Wm. Barr, Mrs. Tyler L. Redfield, Miss Dorothy Brown, Mrs. J. C. Bailey, Mrs. Bausher, Jr., all of whom played auction. Later for tea came Madam and Mrs. Spring, Mrs. Henry Hornblower, Mrs. W. V. Kellen, Mrs. S. B. Chapin and her guest, Mrs. MacLoud, Mrs. Truesdell, Mrs. Alice May, Mrs. Robeson, Mrs. Wm. Morse, Mrs. DeMott, Mrs. S. A. D. Shepard, Mrs. George J. Jenks and Miss Child. Mrs. Redfield and Mrs. Pierson assisted Mrs. Bausher in serving, one lady presiding over the coffee urn and the other served tea.

There were a number of delightful dinner parties at the Carolina on Saturday night, among them Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Gilman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Tyler L. Redfield and their son, Oliver. At another table Mr. and Mrs. William Morse were host and hostess, with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merrill and Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Robeson for their guests. Mr. George Crocker came in from his suburban home with a party of three to dine, while Mr. and Mrs. George G. Foster of New York had a party of four, and Mr. Norman Kerngood of New York was the gallant host for a party of five.

The gymkhana was most interesting last week; there were many unusual features about it which were keenly appreciated by all. There were several ties in the games too, for Messrs. Waller and Alexander played off a tie in the water-race which Mr. Alexander finally won, for the men, while Miss Dorothy Barber and Mrs. Evelyn P. Spencer tied for the ladies' prize and Miss Barber
