NOTES OF THE WEEK

at the Country Club. The host and hostess and their guests were an interesting group of representative Bostonians, and the dinner was a charming, friendly affair, well-planned and delicious. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Galen Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hornblower, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hardwick, Walworth Pierce, and David C. Percival of Boston, and Mrs. Arthur Delano of New Bedford, Mass. After dinner the party adjourned to the Carolina to join in the evening's frolic there.

An unusual masked and fancy-dress ball was given at the Holly Inn. Twenty couples entered the frolic with just the right amount of vigor and animation to make a thorough success of the affair. The costumes were well devised and clever, with many beautiful ones. The grand march was led by the "Heavenly Twins" who carried out their characterization as mischief-making youngsters extremely well, and who were found to be two clever guests, Mrs. O. A. Blackburn of Pittsburg, and Mrs. F. W. Kennedy of Chicopee, Mass. While space will not permit a list of all the costumes they were clever and all received much attention. A blue ribbon was given to Mrs. Thomas Hogan of Syracuse, for the handsomest costume, a Sultana, and a gorgeous one. Mr. Daniel O. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., was direct from the Fiji Islands, and won the red ribbon for the most daring costume. Mrs. R. B. Hilliard of Englewood, N. J., appeared as a Knitting-bag and won third prize for the most original costume. Everyone was happy over the well-deserved success of the party.

Mrs. O. A. Blackburn gave a most delightful afternoon of Bridge and tea at the Holly Inn last week. There were three tables about which we saw Mrs. G. M. Edwards of Woodstock, Vt.; Mrs. A. W. Kerr, Brooklyn; Miss Katherine Gallup, Boonville, N. Y.; Mrs. T. L. Hogan, Syracuse; Miss E. K. Lemont, Philadelphia; Mrs. C. F. Dow, Detroit; Mrs. F. W. Kennedy, Chicopee, Mass.; Mrs. Maloney, Philadelphia; Mrs. W. B. Stebbins, Nutley, N. J.; Mrs. Hoyt Gallup, Syracuse; and Mrs. Edw. G. Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Barr entertained at Bridge Friday evening in honor of their daughter, Mrs. William E. Gray of Larchmont Manor, N. Y., who is visiting them at their cottage, Silva Nidus. The guests were Judge and Mrs. W. A. Way and Mr. Alvin Morris of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin B. Hutzler of Richmond, Va.; Mr. Garside of New York; Mr. G. W. Baker and Mrs. F. Stafford of Brooklyn; Mrs. H. W. Putnam of Newport, R. I.; Mrs. F. D. Williams of Boston, and Mr. Dann of Syracuse. The prize winners were Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Williams, Judge Way and Mr. Hutzler.
