When The Paper's Gone to Press

(By EDGAR A. GUEST)

I've sat at banquet tables, and I've seen the silver shine,
I've tasted every luxury on which we mortals dine;
I've heard the wit and eloquence of many a famous man,
I've had all sorts of dinners since my dining-days began,
But there's one glad table somewhere that I'd like to see once more,
One bunch I'd like to meet with when the long day's work is o'er;
One meal I'd like to rush to after all the strife and stress—
That good old midnight supper when the paper's gone to press.

We held them in the old days in a hole down in the wall,
And many a night the table had no linen on at all,
And the food was far from dainty, but the gang which gathered round
Was the finest bunch of fellows that could anywhere be found,
Then we talked the long day over with its list of various deeds
Which reporters live and share in, but the reader only reads.
We punctured sham with satire, as the boys still do, I guess,
Who meet somewhere at midnight when the paper's gone to press.

Now the gang with which I gathered has been scattered far and wide,
And some of them are wealthy and some of them have died,
There's a new lad writing murders, and a new pen telling tales
Of his sad and sorry fellows in the hospitals and jails
And I who once was eager for excitement sit sedate
Doing idle rhymes for copy—just a dreamer by the grate
For my day of youth is over, age has brought me some success,
But it stopped those midnight lunches when the paper's gone to press.

When all the town is sleeping and the midnight bells have tolled
The boys who fill the columns will assemble as of old,
They'll be hungry just as I was and they'll be as short of cash,
But the room will ring with laughter and the lightning wit will flash,
And some cub will sit in my place, but he'll never know or care
How many gray old-timers now are wishing we were there,
For with all the years have brought us we still miss the happiness
Of those good old midnight lunches when the paper's gone to press.

BLUE COLONEL GOLF BALLS

YOUR first tryout on the putting greens with a Blue Colonel Golf Ball shows you its remarkable balance, for it rolls straight, saving you many an otherwise wasted stroke. And fewer putts mean a lower score.

And in driving and on approaches this balance manifests itself in unusual distance and precise direction, the Blue Colonel's lasting qualities proving downright economy.
