Nineteenth Annual Spring Tournament

In his match with Merriman, Parson got off to a flying start with birdies on two of the first three holes and was particularly good on the greens where he sank some long putts. Merriman won the fourth when Parson put his second into a trap, but lost the next one when he missed an eight foot putt and laid himself a stymie. On the seventh hole Parson missed his lone short putt of the day, two feet away, but won the eighth and ninth.

Parson was out in 38 as against 42 for Merriman and made the turn 4 up. They halved the first three holes coming in but at the thirteenth Parson laid his third shot dead to the pin and won the hole with a 4 to a 5. A halve on the fourteenth ended the match, 5 up and 4 to go. Parson has been playing fine golf here this season and is now considered a very important factor in the coming North and South championship.

The cards of the leading qualifying scores were:

C. B. Fownes: Out—533, 544, 633—36. In—454, 563, 635-41—77.

Joe Bydolek, Buffalo: Out—465, 443, 632—37. In—545, 464, 543-40—77.

Fownes had a 38-40—78 on No. 3, but here's B. P. Merriman's card for course qualifying round:

B. P. Merriman, Waterbury, Conn.:

No. 3: Out—454, 344, 465—39. In—455, 434, 465-40—79.

No. 2: Out—544, 453, 643—38. In—455, 443, 545-39—77—156.

So when the golfer here wishes to bust 80 on either course, all he has to do is think of those cards printed above.

Those to qualify in the first sixteen were: Fownes, 155; Merriman, 156; Bydolek, 157; F. C. Newton, 159; T. R. Brown, 161; C. H. Jennings, 163; Don Parson, 163; J. D. Standish, Jr., 164; J. T. Hunter, 164; T. S. Fuller, 165; E. L. Scofield, 165; J. D. Chapman, 166; J. M. Ward, 167; T. A. Kelley, 167; H. J. Blue, 169, and J. A. Middleton, 170.

In the first match-play round, Wednesday last week, the results in the top flight were: Parson beat Standish, 3 and 2; Chapman beat Hunter, 1 up; Blue beat Kelley, 3 and 2; Brown beat Bydolek, 1 up, 20 holes; Jennings beat Fuller, 1 up; Merriman beat Ward, 4 and 3; Scofield beat Newton, 2 and 1; Fownes beat Middleton, 1 up.

In the second round, first sixteen: Parson beat Chapman, 2 and 1; Brown beat Blue, 4 and 3; Merriman beat Jennings, 3 and 2; and Scofield beat Fownes, 7 and 6.

In the semi-final matches there: Parson beat Brown, 7 and 6, and Merriman beat Scofield, 3 and 2.

In the final round Saturday, Parson beat Merriman, 5 and 4, and won a fine silver pitcher, built for beer but used for Coca-Cola.

The consolation flight results were: First round—Standish beat Hunter, 3 and 2; Bydolek won by default of Kelley; Fuller beat Ward, 3 and 2; Newton beat Middleton, 2 up. Second round—Standish beat Bydolek, 1 up, 19 holes; Newton beat Fuller, 5 and 3. Finals: Newton beat Standish, 4 and 3.

Spencer D. Wright, Jr., Aronimink, Philadelphia, won the second sixteen final round from N. E. Sprague, 1 up; and George W. Statzell, of Philadelphia, President of the Tin Whistles, lost to J. D. Armstrong, in the consolation flight of the second sixteen, 1 down.

Wright and Statzell hail from the same country club in Philadelphia, and met in the first round of match play in the second sixteen where both qualified. Wright ousted Statzell to the consolation flight, and then won his own final round. Statzell entered the final round of his branch, but was beaten by Armstrong, and the irony of fate.

But consider the story of others, and the score sheet, of A. D. Fisher. He qualified in the twelfth sixteen but lost his first match there, 7 and 6, so dropped in the consolation flight of that division. Fisher won his first match, 1 up, from M. F. Badger, and his second
