Annual North and South for Women

THE twenty-first annual United North and South championship for women got off to a flying start on Friday last with one of the largest and strongest fields that ever took part in the event. Four days of match play will follow the qualifying round to decide the 1923 champion.

Miss Glenna Collett, national champion and present holder of the North and South title, was on hand to defend her crown and gave promise of repeating her last season's victory by winning the qualifying medal with a round of 41-47-88, one stroke ahead of Miss Louise Fordyce, Ohio State champion, and one who is expected to make the leading favorites put forth their best efforts. Miss Fordyce was followed by Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, oftentimes winner of the North and South and one of the favorites to win the championship honors. Mrs. Barlow came in just one stroke behind Miss Fordyce and one stroke ahead of Miss Anita Lihme, of Chicago, who caused somewhat of a surprise by finishing fourth in the strong field, with a round of 91.

Miss Marion Hollins, national champion in 1921, and at the start of the qualifying round an equal choice with Miss Collett, went out in 44, but took 48 for the last nine holes and finished in a tie for fifth place with Miss Clara Louise Krauter of the Youngstown Country Club.

In addition to the championship division, the tournament comprises twelve other divisions of eight players each. The field qualified in the following order:
