Winners at the Traps

FINE shooting marked the 100-target handicap trapshooting tournament this week when four guns registered perfect scores and three shoot-offs were necessary to decide the winner.

B. V. Covert, Norwood Johnston, Henry A. Page, Jr., and M. B. Orr, all scored perfect targets in the main event and on the first shoot off of twenty-five targets Covert, Johnston and Orr tied with 25 each, Page dropping five birds. On the second shoot-off Johnston and Orr again registered perfect scores and Covert dropped two. This reduced the field to Johnston and Orr, and on the third and final frame Johnston came through with another 25 as against 22 for his opponent and was awarded the prize.

Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, of Boston, who took part in the weekly rifle shoot for women for the first time this season, registered one of the best scores that have been made in some time and won the prize with a target of 147 points out of a possible 150. Mrs. H. E. Moles, of Montreal, who has been shooting exceptionally well this season, was a close second this week with 146 points, and Mrs. A. W. Stanley, of New Britain, Conn., finished third with 140.

Other good scores were Miss Dorothy Davis, Toronto, 139; Miss Katherine Lewis, Chicago, 139, and Mrs. Wm. B. Merrill, Newton Center, Mass., 138.

Tennis Stars On the Courts covering of court, her spectacular "gets," and her greater reserve strength in the crises.

Neither player went to the net except under the most favorable conditions. It was a case of drive, drive, drive, with the ball rarely falling more than a few inches from the lines, except when a short return was called for. After taking the first set at 6-2 and dropping the second by the same score, Miss Gilleaudeau ran into a lead of 4-1 in the third and deciding set. Mrs. Raymond was showing unmistakable signs of the physical strain and appeared headed rapidly for defeat. At this stage, however, she proved her resourcefulness and courage by taking the next four games, for a lead of 5-4. Now came the real crisis in the struggle, and Miss Gilleaudeau, with more strength in reserve, won the last three games, for the set, match and championship.

MEN'S DOUBLES

The men's doubles brought out some splendid tennis, particularly by Voshell and Bidwell, who were dominating figures at the net position throughout the four sets. Richards, owing to his lame ankle, played a less spectacular part than is his custom, but of course he was continually the deciding factor in the struggle. The match was begun where it was left off yesterday, with Richards and Voshell leading at 6-2, 3-2 and 30-40.

Bidwell and Wheelwright won the seventh game of the second set and then squared the issue by taking the set at 6-4, with Bidwell doing heroic service at the net position. After taking the first two games of the third set and then losing the next three, the runners-up alternated in winning up to 5-all, when Voshell and Richards won the last two, for the set at 7-5. In the final set the new champions were always in the lead after 2-all had been called.
