VOL. I NO. 7

SYLVA, N. C., AUGUST 27, 1915,

$1.00 THE YEAR IN ADVANCE

S. C. I. OPENED WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The Sylva Collegiate Institute opened Tuesday, August 24th, by a number of enthusiastic talks from the trustees and citizens of the town. The future looks bright for the school.

Prof. Ingram is working hard to make the school a great school, and success for the school means success for Sylva and all the western counties. The school is growing every year. It opened with a number of new students from many sections of the state.

Mrs. Sadie J. Long returned yesterday from Cullowhee where she has been visiting for several days.

J. S. Leopard of Central S. C. passed through the city Thursday enroute for his home. Mr. Leopard has been up visiting his home folks.

Remember the Fair begins Sept. 28 and that is not very long. Have you made any preparations for it?

Mrs. J. L. Broyles of Webster was in the city Wednesday.

Drs. W. P. and Daisy McGuire visited home folks the first of the week.

Kelley Bennett of Bryson City was in the city Wednesday.

It has been reported to us that G. Taylor Hampton is very ill at his home near Murphy.

Miss Isabella Keener entertained a crowd of the young people Wednesday evening at her home.

Miss Ruth Allison of Webster was in the city Wednesday.

Remember the unveiling of the monument takes place Sept 18th. Make your plans to be present as this will be one of the biggest things in the Western part of the County.

Misses Ethel, Irene and Mattie Burge Abernethy were here, Tuesday from Cullowhee.

Miss Christine Nichols is visiting in Etowah.

Miss Margie Abernethy is the guest of Miss Alice Gray.

Mrs. C. O. Abernethy and little daughter, Martha Annis are here from Raleigh.

Miss Christine Nichols entertained at cards at her home on main street, Wednesday evening, complimentary to her attractive house guest, Miss Ora Nichols of Etowah. Various games were enjoyed at the five tables. The pleasing color scheme of pink and white was carried out in both decorations and refreshments. Mrs. Nichols gracefully presided at the punch bowl. Among those present were; Misses Gray, Greer, Mamye and Pearl Long, Lucy Wells, Keener, Sanford, Enslay and Nichols and Messrs. T. C. Bryson, Cox, Perkins, Luck, B. H. and H. P. Cathey, Stillwell Rhodes and Tompkins.

Mrs. Albert McCrackin is visiting her sister Mrs. A. J. Dills of this city.

UNVEILING MONUMENT

SYLVA SEPT. 18th, 1915.

ORATOR, GEN. JULIAN S. CARR

By far the most interesting event that has transpired since the organization of Jackson county will take place at Sylva on the 18th of next month when a beautiful monument in commemoration of the deeds of the Confederate soldiers and their wives, both living and dead, will be unveiled.

Nearly every individual in the county will have a deep personal interest in this occasion as almost every one had fathers, mothers, brothers or sisters whose fortunes, whose sacred honor and even whose lives were laid upon the altar of the Civil War.

There are many citizens of Jackson whose fathers brothers or husbands sleep in unmarked graves on the fields of Virginia, Georgia or Tennessee, or died slow deaths in Northern prisons, helpless in the presence of relentless and often cruel captors, with the heroic asseveration, with their last gasp, of their allegiance to Dixie—to their homes and their starving wives and children.

It is in highest honor and perpetual memory of heroes and heroines like these that this lasting memorial is being erected. It is our small, belated tribute to their great sacrifice. How fortunate it is that a handful of the veterans of that war are still with us to behold and to enjoy our feeble tribute.

In the face of solemn claims, such as these, upon our patriotism, our love and reverence for all which is dear to a loyal people we are determined to make this the largest attended and the happiest occasion in the sixty-three years of county history.

And now we extend to every surviving veteran and his wife and family; to every widow of a Confederate soldier, God bless her in her lonely old age, in the beauty, purity and nobility of her character; to every son and grandson, daughter and grand-daughter of a Confederate soldier at home or abroad; to every Union soldier, his wife and his offspring; to Northern citizens sojourning in our happy Southland; to every Southern visitor breathing our mountain ozone and drinking our liquid pearl; to every fair visiting maiden of the North or of the South ogling, the while, with our mountain youth; to all persons of any and all sections of any and all faiths religious or political who love, revere or respect the man who wore the gray, we extend the deepest, dearest, fullest welcome of our hearts. WELCOME will be the word and the latch strings will dangle on the outside Sylva's and Jackson's gates on that day.

Following is the inclose program. Line of march will begin at some place later to be designated, at 10 o'clock.

Capt. Frederick Rutledge of Troop B. Cavalry N. C. N. G. of Asheville, will have command and conduct the line of march. Capt. Rutledge will be assisted by a corps of marshals composed of sons of veterans from various parts of the county, and one of the distinguished features of the procession will be the presence of the Haywood Company of the National guard under the Command of Capt. J. H. Howell. The procession will be led by the First Regiment Band of Asheville whose services we have procured. Unveiling ceremonies will be concluded before dinner. EVERYBODY BRING DINNER.

The speaking will begin at 11:30. Chairman of the occasion, Wm. L. Henson.

Invocation, Rev. Harris of Sylva Baptist church.

Address of Welcome, Hon. Coleman C. Cowan.

Response to Address of Welcome, Prof. A. C. Reynolds; President Cullowhee N. & I. College.

Presentation Monument, J. H. Cathey, Chairman Monument Association.

Acceptance of Monument on Behalf of Connty, Hon. Baxter C. Jones Member of General Assembly from Jackson.

Unvieling of Monument by four little boys and four little girls dressed in gray and representing the eight companies of Confederate soldiers who volunteered from Jackson county.

Introduction of Orator of the Occasion, Hon. Corsey C. Buchanan. Orator of the day, Gen. Julian S. Carr of Durham, N. C. Dinner on the grounds at the conclusion of General Carr's address. EVERYBODY BRING DINNER.

A list of the marshals and the names of the children to draw monument veil will appear in a subsequent completed program.

The program will be interspersed with vocal music and timely recitals of Southern melodies and poems by trained people. The names and titles of these will appear in next week's Journal.

MUSICAL RECITAL. TUESDAY-NIGHT AUGUST 31ST AT DILLSBORO.

The ladies of Dillsboro under the direction of the W. A. Enloe. Chapt. Daughters of the Confederacy, have very graciously tendered this Musical Recital which promises to be one of the most refined and enjoyable local events of the season, for the benefit of the Confederate Monument to be unveiled at Sylva on the 18th of September.

Miss Annie Camp Stedman of Arkansas, will appear in Song Recital assisted by Mrs. Wallace Snow of Florida.

These ladies are finished singers and musicians with all the refinements afforded by the foremost modern teachers.

A most pleasing evening of musical entertainment is in store for all who are wise enough to avail themselves of it.

Miss Stedman is a graduate of one of the best schools of Music in the South, was a pupil of Harold Becket Gibbs of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and studied later with Mrs. Fox of the Chicago College of Music. Her voice is a lyric soprano.

Harold Becket Gibbs said of Miss Stedman, "In the twenty five years of my teaching voice, I've never before, had as painstaking a pupil. Her voice is beautiful, of rare quality and volume. It is of unusual flexibility and at all times in her singing she has her voice under perfect control."

The late Bob Taylor said of Miss Stedman "I've lectured for many years and I've never had a better assistant than Miss Stedman whose magnificent voice adds greatly to the success of the evening."

Mrs. Snow belongs to a leading musical club of Florida and is often heard in concert, both as a soloist and accompanist. Her Artistic execution is very pleasing.

It is greatly to be desired that everybody in Sylva, Webster and surrounding community, especially lovers of fine music, will attend this recital. It is not only, entertaining but educative and then the object is the most worthy. Let every one attend.
