Do They All Do It?

The other day there came to a local hotel a young traveling man of a very effeminate type. The other men in the hotel watched him with amusement until he took from his pocket a powder puff and mirror and before the whole assembly powdered his chin and nose. Then they laughed openly. But he was not dismayed. "I just came from Pittsburgh," he explained, "and the coal dust there is so thick that we either have to wash our faces every hour or so or powder occasionally."

However, the other men laughed on.—Exchange.

Made Up for Size in Sense.

Robert had a very small dog, but he was a remarkably well-trained animal and seemed almost human. A man met him one day and said jokingly: "Why don't you get a man-size dog? You can hardly see that small fellow."

"Well," said Robert, "he is a fine dog, his sense is a lot bigger than his size."

No man is so winsome to his friends as when he admits he has been acting the fool.

Carrying the Load. The recent publicity given co-eds at the university has caused quite a lot of apparently "tongue-twisted" comments from the co-eds themselves. For instance, in substance, the following is a conversation between two of the fair damsels: "Well, what do you think of the scandal that they are shooting at us about petting parties?" Other co-ed: "I have passed it up as a huge joke." "Why, sure; that's all it is. Why should they accuse all of them by actions of a few of us?"—Columbus Dispatch.

Betty Knew. Betty had her little brother out playing with her. He fell down, and while he wasn't really hurt he set up a lusty yelling. "Why don't you pick Bobby up and comfort him?" I asked Betty. "Oh, he isn't hurt," she said, "'cause he is just crying with his holler and not his tears."—Exchange.

Bad Case. Miss Catt—Matrimony must have gone to her head. Miss Nipp—Without a doubt. She's still living with her husband.

American Advertises for Thrill. The other afternoon a young American rented an airplane at the Bourget field which he will utilize, he declares, to scatter handbills all over Paris, says Le Petit Parisien. A sample of these handbills reads as follows: "An American, for the first time in Paris, would like to lunch at noon next Tuesday with the most interesting anarchist in the capital; Wednesday, with a graduate student of art or music; Thursday, with an actress; Friday, with some lady who intends to commit suicide, and Saturday, with a nobleman. "In exchange for this entertainment he offers the luncheons, music and intelligent conversation." The address of an American advertising agency follows, and then the name of this original visitor—Lionel P. Tompkins.

Pertinent Query. A youthful history instructor at the Midway (according to the Maroon) got quite disgusted the other day at his class of dumb belles and spoke out in exasperated scorn: "If you were all a little younger, or I were a little older, I would take you on my knees—" "Which way?" interrupted the pretty blonde in the front row.—Chicago Post.
