Speaking of March Lions—!

We confidently await the arrival of the lamb.

At the present time the O is about all that can be seen of Highway 106.

Dr. Coolidge vetoed the prescription concocted to relieve the financial pains of the bucolic West.

It's all right—the trout will be rising to the "professor" in a few days.

If the Pope continues to thunder against prevailing fashions in dress and dance, the women will change his name from Pius to Prude.

Has the war zone moved from Shanghai, from Mexico, from Herrin, from Chicago to the highway from the Cowee Gap to the Georgia line?

The Georgia Peach crop having been once killed, this season, we may expect spring to arrive after it is killed twice more.

Good will diplomacy might accomplish more than good will plans. The Latin American problem is Greek to most of the citizens of this country.

Its strange how people hate taxes that go into the treasuries of their government; and yet how wedded they are to tariffs, which are the same thing, but go into the pockets of private individuals and corporations.

What's the use of having a secretary of state so long as we have Senator Borah to look after our foreign correspondence? Mr. Coolidge might save a little by discharging Mr. Kellogg and leaving the office vacant.

Well, it did snow in the valleys West of the Balsams, but it won't near as deep as it was to the east of us. We had about half as much as Waynesville and Asheville and a fifth as much as Raleigh and Wilson. Once more the superiority of our winter climate is vindicated.

The governor of South Carolina is right in enforcing the Sunday observance laws of his state. They have been on the statute books for a hundred years, and so long as they are laws they should be enforced. Of course religious legislation should never be enacted; but the governor of South Carolina has fallen upon the only plan whereby the statutes can be wiped from the books. Enforce them, and the people will demand and secure their repeal.

Three million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in equalizing fund the compromise measure in the general assembly, is better than what we had; but the question will never be settled until it is settled right. The right, the fair, the true thing to do is to establish a state system of public education, thereby giving every child in North Carolina from the deepest cove in the mountains to the swamps along the coast, equal educational opportunities.

THE EAST AND THE WEST

It is becoming more and more apparent that the interests of the industrious East and the bucolic West are in conflict. The battle down the thin barriers of political alignment and more and more the blocs are lining up in the interests of their constituents. The conflict of interest is apparently destined to become more and more acute as the months come and go.

The tariff protected industries are prosperous. The big corporations declare huge dividends, and the farmers of the West and planters of the South suffer the while.

There is but one method of attack that is successful in overcoming political prejudice, and that is to hit a man in the vulnerable pocket book. The farmers are hit and hit hard. They are suffering, and it does not relieve the situation in their minds, to know that the so-called big businesses are prosperous to an unheard of degree.

We may expect almost anything to develop out west, within the next few months.

RIGHT IS RIGHT

Judge Grady resigned from the Ku Klux Klan rather than have anything to do with the introduction or passage of legislation designed against the Knights of Columbus, and he was right. Such things are not matters for legislative action. Immediately the general assembly enacted legislation against the Ku Klux Klan which was wrong, for the same reason. Aside from that, the general assembly has probably done the only thing that could bring the Klan back to activity and make it grow in North Carolina.

DUKE DANCES

With the North Carolina Christian Advocate leading the attack we can expect lively times in North Carolina over the Dances at Duke University, chaperoned by members of the faculty of the institution. Doubtless thousands of Methodists throughout the state, and the whole South for that matter, will rally behind the Christian Advocate in its condemnation.

To say the least of it, it is certainly bad taste for such amusements to be sponsored by members of the faculty of an educational institution which is the property of conferences of a church, that condemns dancing and the like, in no uncertain terms, as being "worldly" and the rules of which prohibit its members from indulging in the dance and kindred amusements.

We do not believe that so long as Duke University is their property, the North Carolina Methodists will look upon such practices with approval.

March 1st. Nature is presenting a peculiar appearance. Flowers with green leaves and grass are peeping from under the snow. A strange freak of nature—nevertheless—beautiful.
