WAS KIPLING A PROPHET?

We are all more or less familiar with the lines of the Recessional, and its prophecy of the overthrow and decay of the British civilization, coupled with a prayer to the "God of the Nations to Spare Us Yet"; but other lines, holding before the eyes of the England of other decades the prophecy of this, are not so familiar.

Hear Kipling as he sounds the warning for the effects of decadence, of ease, of the loss of the spirit of sacrifice, of the failure to bolster the dykes that were laboriously builded by our fathers to hold back the evil forces that would flood us with paganism and slavery:

"Our world has passed away,
In wantonness o'erthrown.
There is nothing left today
But steel and fire and stone!"

"Comfort, content, delight,
The ages' slow-bought gain,
They shrivelled in a night,
Only ourselves remain!"

And again, with prophetic eye, he told us of the betrayal of our spiritual trust, and the payment that would have to be made in blood for that betrayal:

"Now we can only wait till the day, wait and apportion our shame; These are the dykes our fathers left, but we would not look to the same. Now it may be we have slain our sons, as our fathers we have betrayed."

What an indictment! What a warning! But the people have ever been slow to heed the warnings of prophets. Even today, in the midst of a great war, in which our lives, our fortunes, our spiritual heritage, and our very right to exist as freemen are at stake, we find thousands of men and women who are unable to concentrate upon the great issues involved; who are still more interested in the amount of money that goes into the pay envelope, the salary check, or on the profit side of the ledger than they are in the material and spiritual salvation of a civilization. Even today there are many men, broadcasting on the radio, writing for the newspapers, speaking and working on the floors of Congress, who are more interested in the petty political interests of certain groups, in bringing about discredit to certain political leaders, than they are in winning this, the greatest of all wars, with the greatest stake involved of any war since the world emerged from the Dark Ages. And, if you will check the list of commentators, of editors, of speakers, of Congressmen and Senators, who are today finding issues in which to interest the people, divert their minds from the main objective, and in the doing discredit the President of the United States and his cabinet members, you will find that they are the same people who, a few months ago, were doing all within their power to discredit the Administration, and in so doing, prevented this country from being prepared totally to meet the onslaught when it came, and gave aid and encouragement to the enemies of our country and of our civilization. The same men and women within the churches, who were pacifists before the attack came on Manila and Pearl Harbor, or who stupidly believed that it was only necessary for us to disarm and remain disarmed, and wish to have no war, and there would be none, continue in their enervating activities, by hoping that America will not become angry enough to become the instrument of God in dealing out just punishment to criminal nations, now intent upon bringing destruction, misery, death and slavery to their neighbor nations of the world. These same people continue to hold up the conscientious objectors in the camps constructed for them as the real heroes of this war, and glorify their names, as the law provides, under the Selective Service Act.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

These men and women forget the eternal principle that the way to gain one's life is to lose it; that the only great life is the one that is willing to sacrifice and suffer to the utmost in a righteous cause. The Master gave His life to establish our Christianity. He suffered much to give us the precious things that are ours. We need a church today that is willing to follow Him in sacrifice, to maintain that which He bought at so great a price. We need a church militant. Never have we needed more a church that will practice the Christian virtues of sacrifice, and go forth in a mighty crusade founded upon the eternal verities, as we need it now. This is a war for the freedom of the souls of men. Who is not willing to sacrifice in such a cause? Those of His followers who are willing to follow the Master through Gethsemane and to the Cross, these alone are able to share in His glorious Resurrection.

"If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." That is the challenge of the ages. It speaks of no milk and water Christianity. It tells of no flowery beds of ease. It offers no good jobs with handsome salaries. It presents no big dividends in money. It seeks not the best positions in church or state or business. It simply tells of the sacrifice that must be made by any man or any nation if that man or that nation is to find salvation. In it lies the key to our door of emergence from the present darkness that encompasses our Christianity and our Civilization. In this dark hour we all, churchmen, politicians, business men, labor, must accept it; else we perish.

Look to the dykes! Let us make the slaughter of our sons as little as is possible! Let us not continue to betray our fathers!

WAKE UP CITIZENS OF JACKSON COUNTY

Are we as citizens of Jackson County sending our boys to camp in the right spirit? Back in 1917 all the good people of the County were in Sylva to see the boys leave, but today it is quite different. The boys of 1942 must feel very blue because we seem so unconcerned about them. As a veteran of the first world war, I very well know how much it means to the boys who are leaving to have a group of friends and neighbors gather at the station to send them off with words of good cheer and a sunny smile. I sincerely believe it is our christian duty to see these boys off.

Lets shake ourselves loose from this attitude of indifference and be at the station next time a group of boys leave and show them that we still have a little spirit of '17 in our systems. Don't say you haven't time, for we have as much as we ever did. Citizens of Jackson County come out to see your sons leave for this very worthy cause of Liberty and Freedom. Lets send them off next time with a smile.

EDWARD BRYSON,
Commander, William E. Dillard Post, American Legion.

NEW DEMAND FOR MILK SUPPLIES

Army camps and increased civilian population in North

Carolina have accounted for a new demand of approximately 10,000 gallons of fluid milk daily, according to W. L. Clevenger, dairy manufacturing specialist of N. C. State College.

The requirement is still on the increase, since new camps are now being established in the State. In addition, the normal demand is increasing as more money is placed in circulation.

This situation, Clevenger said, means that North Carolina is now doing its biggest dairy business and will be expected to do an even bigger job before the war is over.

Indications are, he continued, that the State will be able to meet this new demand without a great deal of trouble, since it is well-balanced from most standpoints.
