

Young Player Lead Tar Heels in Scrimmage

By EVAN MARKFIELD
Assistant Sports Editor

With three starters out of the lineup, the ninth-ranked North Carolina men's lacrosse team got a little help from some previously untapped sources Sunday.

Men's Lacrosse
Hofstra	.....12
UNC	.....14

While mid-fielders Brett Kohart and Justin Bowman and attackman Jeff Sonke - last year's ACC Rookie of the Year - watched from the sideline, it was untested freshman Pat Jackson who scored the game-winning goal in UNC's 14-12 scrimmage victory against No. 10 Hofstra at Navy Field.

"We had a lot of young guys out there," UNC senior midfielder Jeremy Carey said. "First half, there were a lot of jitters, guys dropping the ball. But once we settled down, I think everything went pretty well."

If Jackson had any freshman jitters, it didn't show.

Jackson had already scored twice when he took a pass from Carey at the 6:17 mark of the fourth quarter and put it past Hofstra keeper Mike Bennett. The goal gave the Tar Heels a 13-10 lead and proved to be the game-winner.

Freshman Tim Gosier also chipped in for UNC, tallying a goal and an assist 52 seconds apart in the fourth quarter.

Gosier's goal caused some debate between officials and Hofstra coach John Danowski. After a penalty flag had flown, Carey bounced a pass to Gosier, who put the ball in the back of the net.

"Usually if the ball hits the ground, they call the play over," Klarmann said. "But if it's a controlled pass, I think they'll give it to you."

After the referee said the goal would stand, UNC was up 11-10 and would not relinquish the lead the rest of the way.

And while freshmen came through in the clutch, the UNC's elder statesmen still carried much of the offensive load.

Junior attacker Matt Crofton led the Tar Heels with four goals while adding two assists, and Carey also chipped in six points (three goals, three assists).

UNC also saw a veteran-rookie dynamic in the cage. Klarmann played senior Jarron Harkness in the first half and had freshman Kris Blindenbacher minding the net in the second.

Harkness gave up five goals on 11 shots while Blindenbacher was scored on seven times and made 11 stops.

Although Blindenbacher came through with some stellar saves against the Flying Dutchmen, he also turned the ball over on clearing attempts more often than his coach would have liked.

"Freshman mistakes," Klarmann said. "You make a great save and then hand the ball back to your opponent - not what you want to do."

Gamble Gets 2nd Place With Career-Best Jump

North Carolina senior Nicole Gamble jumped a career-best 20-7 3/4 to finish second in the long jump at the Kroger Indoor Invitational at Virginia Tech.

Gamble's mark is the fourth-best jump in UNC history.

Baseball Moves to 3-0 By Topping The Citadel

The North Carolina baseball team completed a 3-0 trip to the Winn-Dixie Shootout with a 8-5 win Sunday against The Citadel in Charleston, S.C.

The No. 15 Tar Heels beat East Carolina 8-3 Friday and blanked Virginia Commonwealth 8-0 Saturday.

Wrestling Gets Win On Road Against Navy

The No. 22 North Carolina wrestling team topped Navy 29-11 on Saturday in Annapolis, Md.

UNC got pin victories from Chuckie Connor (125 pounds), Brad Byers (133) and Jamie Groude (174). The Tar Heels also got two wins by decision, while dropping four.

Gymnasts Set Record In Win Against JMU

The North Carolina gymnastics team defeated James Madison 191.725-188.750 Friday in Harrisonburg, Va.

UNC's score set a new Godwin Hall record, previously held by N.C. State.

Gamecocks Hand UNC Men's Tennis Team 1st Loss of Season

By BRET STRELOW
Staff Writer

Considering the fact that the North Carolina men's tennis team had played two Saturday matches each of the past two weekends, this past Saturday had the potential to be a short day's work with only South Carolina scheduled.

But it turned into a long afternoon for the Tar Heels.

North Carolina took only one match from the ninth-ranked Gamecocks and lost its first match of the year 6-1 at Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center.

"I thought we fought hard," UNC coach Sam Paul said. "We've gotta get stronger, and we've gotta play more mature at certain times of the match."

UNC (4-1) has three players who qualified a year ago for the NCAA Tournament, which takes the top 64 players in the country.

South Carolina coach Kent DeMars said his squad from last year lost a large number of close matches due to a lack of experience. This season, that shoe is on North Carolina's foot, with a core of young players playing key roles for Paul, DeMars' former assistant.

"It looked like a veteran squad playing an inexperienced squad," Paul said. "It showed up today, and that's what match play is going to help us with."

In several singles matches, UNC (4-1) had chances to take the opening set but fell short. Tar Heel senior Mike Grass was tied 5-5 with Vladimir Pavicevic but lost 7-5.

North Carolina's Ben Ellix was even at 4-4 with Olaf Akeson before succumbing 6-4, and UNC's Aron Breziner was ahead 6-5 before losing in a tie-breaker 7-4.

"They played the bigger points better," Paul said. "That's what we've got to learn how to do."

North Carolina sophomore Chad Riley looked poised to win at No. 5 singles after winning the opening set 6-2 against Juan Gamboa, but he lost the next two 6-3 and 6-4. At No. 1 singles, UNC's David Cheatwood had an error prone afternoon, losing 6-3, 6-2 to Jerome Jourdan.

"We just need tough matches," Paul said. "This South Carolina team, they're just a veteran squad."

UNC freshman Bjorn Rencken was the lone Tar Heel to win a match, beating Guillaume Legat 6-2, 7-5. Rencken held serve to take a 6-5 lead in the second set, then broke through on his fourth match point to beat Legat, the 12th-ranked player in the nation.

"I was fired up," Rencken said. "I was ready to take my opportunities and take a good win. I came up with some good shots (at the end)."

South Carolina asserted its dominance early, jumping out to quick leads in all three doubles matches. The Tar Heels played better after falling behind, but the deficits were too much to overcome.

The Gamecocks swept the doubles to earn the point.

"We didn't get off to a great start,"

Rencken said. "I felt we were a little bit intimidated by (them being) ninth in the country, and we just didn't take the ball to them."
