STARVATION IMMINENT AMONG THE GERMANS

The duties on Imported Corn Remains the same And

THEY CANNOT BUY IT

At the price it is now selling. The France and German Wheat Crops also a Failure.

(Cable Copyrighted by The United Press.)

LONDON, June 20.—There is no doubt that the German government has taken a serious step in refusing to reduce the duties on imported corn. The harvest in Germany will certainly prove deficient this year, and although the deficiency may not be very serious, that is not the sole consideration.

In France the winter wheat crop will be an almost complete failure, and prices of wheat have during the past few weeks been rising everywhere. Germany must necessarily import a very considerable quantity of grain food, and if to the advanced prices current in free trade markets must be added the German import duty, it is quite certain that the food of the people will be exceedingly dear.

The most forcible comment on the refusal of the government to lighten the duty was the immediate and very serious rise which occurred in the German wheat markets. The mass of the people in Germany live upon grain products mainly, meat being only to a scanty extent within their reach. The prospects of dear food has of course a political bearing, and it has furnished a new weapon of which the social Democrats have not been slow to avail themselves. It is quite possible indeed, that there may be seen during the next few months unless the government should change its mind something like the trouble and agitation which led to the abolition of the corn laws in England. No doubt the present circumstances are very different from those which were experienced in England in 1846.

Germany will be abundantly supplied with wheat from the United States from Austria-Hungary, and from India, but if the duties are maintained the prices will be very high and except where wages have been recently advanced as in the coal mining districts, there will be widespread and, in some cases, very severe suffering.

An English Statesman Does not Want Children to do Factory Work Under That Age

By Cable.

LONDON, June 20th, 1891.—Despite the statements made by 18 members of the House of Commons during the debate on Mr. Buxton's proposition not to permit children under 11 years of age to labor in factories, it is well known by persons familiar with the conditions of continental labor that many nations do permit child labor to an extent greater than is permitted in England.

In France, Hungary, Spain and Denmark the law recognizes the right of parents to put their children at work at the age of 10 years. Italy even permits children to work at the tender age of 9. Children under 12 are not allowed by law to labor in Holland, Belgium, Sweden or Portugal.

BIT AT HER GAME.

A Snake Charmer in a Circus Almost Killed Before the Audience.

By The United Press.

CHICAGO, June 20.—During the afternoon performance at the side show with a circus yesterday, a fourteen foot Python attacked Miss Uno, the snake charmer, and seriously injured her. The snake was a new acquisition of bad disposition. Miss Uno had wound the snake about her and was about to lift another to her arm, when it tightened its folds and caught her left arm in its jaws. Three attendants at once sprung to her assistance, and it required their united efforts to free her from the horrible embraces of the serpent. The jaws of the reptile had to be prized open before her arm could be released. A physician was called and the wound cauterized, and unless blood poisoning sets in the injury will not be serious. At the time of the accident the show was packed with people and the excitement was intense. Four ladies fainted and had to be taken into fresh air before they recovered.

(By United Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., June 20.—The Evening Journal addressed a letter to each member of the Legislature which meets next month, inquiring as to whether he would vote for a State appropriation for an exhibit at the World's Fair. The Journal to-day prints 71 replies received to-day, of which 58 are unqualifiedly against any appropriation on certain conditions, and 7 are non-committal. This makes it practically certain that the Legislature will make no appropriation for the World's Fair.

A FATHER'S ANGER CONQUERS CUPID.

He Enters a Church and Stops his Daughter's Marriage.

HER LOVER SHOWS FIGHT.

And he and his Would-be Father-in-law Have a tussel over the Prerty Prize.

LONDON, June 20.—A singular scene occurred to interrupt a wedding ceremony to-day in a church in the London suburb of Blookpool. The couple who were to be married had taken their places before the altar and the clergyman was about to pronounce the words that should make the twain one when the Father of the intended bride suddenly rushed into the church and shouted out a vigorous objection to the continuance of the proceedings.

He based his objection on the ground that his daughter was not of age, being still under 18 years, and that he had refused his permission to the marriage.

There was a stormy and tearful scene, and the father and his would-be son-in-law nearly came to blows. The scandalized clergyman finally got the party out of the sacred edifice, very glad to be rid of them even at the loss of his prospective fee. The lover did not leave however without vowing vengeance upon the stern parent who had defeated his matrimonial hopes.

REBELLION AND BLOOD.

Terror Reigns Supreme for a While But now all is Tranquil.

(By Cable.)

PARIS, June 20.—The Haytian minister here has received a letter from the Secretary of State of Hayti dated Port AuPrince, saying that on May 25th President Hippolyte was attending the religious ceremonies in the cathedral when a crowd of desperadoes, led by an obscure General named Sully-Guerrier, attacked the prison, forced open the doors and set the prisoners free. Guerrier and his mob then started for the Palace, hoping to seize and assassinate Hippolyte and his ministers. The latter collected the loyal forces and succeeded in crushing the revolution. Guerrier and many of his accomplices were arrested. The latter declares that Hippolyte displayed great courage during the action. The letter further says that Rigaud was not shot until convincing proof had been obtained that he was not a French subject. The country is now quiet.

VERILY RALEIGH IS ON A HUSTLE.

The Electric Car Line, Grand Union Depot and Caraleigh Mills say so.

ACTIVITY DISPLAYED EVERYWHERE.

Great Preparation for the Southern Exposition, for a City Auditorium and for a Grand Land Sale.

Raleigh is on the biggest building boom in her history.

This beautiful capital city forges ahead and activity increases among the old citizens as new enterprises are pushed forward by the young.

"I never saw the like in my life," said an old Raleighite yesterday. "More genuine hustling is going on in this city than was ever displayed here before. I mean it. The people are not crowding out on the street nor are they talking much, but look here—I see around this place the following great enterprises starting up and the following handsome buildings being constructed:

- Grand Union Depot, $75,000.
 - Caraleigh Cotton Mills $150,000.
 - Caraleigh Phosphate Mills $50,000.
 - Electric Car Line, $125,000.
 - Hotel Extensions, $15,000.
 - Addition to Baptist Tabernacle, $5,000.
 - A. & M. College Dormitories, $10,000.
 - Swindell's Mammoth Stores, $20,000.
 - Private Residences, $75,000.
- In these new buildings alone there is over a half a million dollars invested and besides these look at the enterprises being planned for the coming year:
- Railroad Signal Works.
 - Baptist Female University.
 - Taylor Cotton Press Works.
 - A Commodious Hotel.
 - A City Auditorium.
 - The Rex Hospital.
 - Remodelling Market House.

Besides these notes going to show that Raleigh is on a hustle, we must not fail to mention the Great Southern Exposition, which she has secured, and in which several million dollars will be expended. With all these enterprises on foot, where will our Capital City pause in the onward march?

Young men of Raleigh, the CHRONICLE rejoices in the fact that she contains the young men she does. While other towns, through their young men, are pushing forward and holding their ground, let us all be wide awake and studying the interests of Raleigh. Let the Chamber of Commerce be full of young men, and let every business man in this beautiful city join that body, put his shoulder to the wheel and push for all he is worth.

The writer knows that towns are springing up in North Carolina that threaten to loom way up above the other cities of our State and what is the secret of their success? It is large, enthusiastic Chambers of Commerce, and nothing else. Almost every scheme that has made Winston and Asheville what they are to-day and have the bearing they do, originated in the Chambers of Commerce.

BUY HOMES IN IDLEWILD.

Now that Raleigh is going forward in such a substantial way, would it not be wise for the young men of the State who would love to locate in our beautiful Capital city to purchase lots on Jan. 8th in Idlewild. These lots are splendidly situated and will command a fine profit in a few years.

A FINE GAME.

The Beaneaters Lose in an Eleven Inning Game.

(By The United Press.)

BOSTON, June 20.—Boston and Brooklyn alternated in the lead to-day and at the end of the ninth inning they stood even. The tenth inning did not develop anything, but in the eleventh, after the beaneaters had had their "lick" and retired with a goose egg, Foutz rapped out a single and was sent home with the winning run on a two bagger by Tom Daily. (By The United Press.)

An invitation has been issued to all charitably disposed persons to attend a special meeting to be held on Sunday next for the purpose of obtaining funds to carry on the good work.
