LET'S HAVE THE WAREHOUSE REVIVAL

I am disappointed at the announcement that we will not have the warehouse meetings this summer. It was definitely agreed, I thought, that we would have these meetings again this summer and all the past winter I have been looking forward to them with pleasure.

As to the reasons assigned for the abandonment of this annual event, I am not sufficiently advised to speak with authority. However, I have been told that we could not afford it, for it would be too great a financial burden on the community. This may or may not be the reason. If it is, I unhesitatingly say that we are assigning a very poor reason. It is true that we do not have the money that we did three years ago and perhaps not even as much as we had last summer. However, we can certainly feed the visiting preacher, or preachers, and if they are willing to take the chance of voluntary collections, we should certainly not balk at the proposition.

But there is another aspect of the matter that should not be ignored in determining whether we should or should not have these meetings. While we have not as much of this world's goods as we have had, yet we have infinitely more of the receptive mood than we formerly had. Prosperity is not conducive to the indwelling of God's spirit. Prosperity is the devil's, not God's, agency in the development of character. After all, the spirit of man is reverse to that of nature. The flowers of the field laden with the dew of heaven hang their head in humility and gratitude. Man, on the other hand, thus favored becomes arrogant, haughty and unmindful of both God and man.

Adversity and deprivation make men remember their Creator and His creation. It has ever been thus since the days of the children in the wilderness. Elijah had his day of deprivation and solitude; so John the Baptist, who preached repentance as none other ever did preach it, save Christ; so also Paul, earth's first apostle. History's greatest allegory is the result of Bunyan's twelve years of imprisonment in a Bedford jail. Out of the poet's blindness came Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained, poems without equals in the English or any other language. Out of this country's present embarrassment may come the greatest revival of this generation. The conditions favor it. Let's try it.

EVERYBODY COME OUT

On Friday night, March 24, in the auditorium of the College Street building, Oxford High School, represented by Fred Brummitt and Herbert Rountree, will debate Louisburg on the query, "Resolved, That the United States should enter the League of Nations." On the same night, our negative team, composed of Dora Wolf and Edwin Shaw, will debate Franklinton at Franklinton. If you think that the issue is a dead one, come out and be enlightened. Come anyway. We need your support.

DOES OXFORD NEED A Y. M. C. A.?

When the young men of a town have to loaf in the drug stores for the simple reason that they have no other place to find companionship and amusement, that town needs a Y. M. C. A. When a father and mother have put eighteen or twenty of the best years of their lives into the careful rearing of a boy, it is discouraging, to say the least, to see their watchful training go for naught.

A Young Men's Christian Association would provide clean, wholesome amusement for the boys and young fellows of this community. There is no need for a marble building or for costly equipment. The home military company composed of about forty members is planning to build club rooms. Is it impossible for three thousand people to raise sufficient enthusiasm and funds to provide "Y" quarters? The "Y" would reach all the young men of the town. The high school boys have their gym, of course, but the fellows who for various reasons do not attend school have no place for physical recreation. Just because a fellow has finished school or has had to quit and go to work is no argument that he doesn't appreciate the right kind of good time.

The "Y" is a force for good in any community. It is not denomination-and, therefore, reaches a class that never darkens the church door. If you believe in the boys and young men of Oxford, give 'em a chance to believe in themselves.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

"T" ROYSTER HAS BRIDGE PARTY

"T" Royster entertained at bridge for two tables on Saturday night. After a number of close games delicious refreshments consisting of chicken salad, cheese straws, hot chocolate, and mints were served. "T's" guests were Sue Bryan, Annie Lou Williams, Annie Gray Burroughs, and Margaret Davis, Will Mitchell, Bobbie Bradsher, and William Hunt.

Miss Carrie Fuller entertained the "Reviewers' Club" on Tuesday evening. The program was built around immigration and its problems, the specific subject being, "Americans by Adoption." The hostess served an elaborate salad course.

INSPECTOR PAYS VISIT

On Tuesday Prof. Holland Holton, assistant High School Inspector, was at Oxford High School, visiting some of the classes and making out his report on the work of the school to the State Board of Education. He expects to return in the near future to complete his investigation.

Mr. Holton is Professor of Education at Trinity College and will visit all the high schools in Granville county. He made several splendid talks in the class rooms.

SIXTH GRADE GIRLS WORKERS

If you happen to look out on the campus you will see girls swarming about busily. These are members of both sixth grades who have volunteered to keep the lawn free of sticks and waste paper. The school is very proud of these girls and hope their good work will continue.

ZACK LYON HAS A SISTER

Zack Lyon says it is not a pleasant sensation to wake up one morning and find yourself a back number all because a nameless little stranger has arrived while you were asleep and unable to defend your rights. Outside of this, Zack says it's very nice to have a little sister in the family. Certainly it can't be very bad when the little sister has a whole outfit of dimples and the prettiest blue eyes in the world.

BIG MINSTREL REVUE

CAPTAIN FULLER SAYS BEST LOCAL TALENT TO TAKE PART

Captain E. E. Fuller, commander of the local post of the American Legion, is lining up his forces for a big minstrel revue to be staged about April 6. The very best talent in the community has already been enlisted. The production is to be coached by a professional sent out by the same company that put on Katchy-Koo. Everything points to a highly successful show.

Miss Allen: "Bailey, do you know what makes the tower of Pisa lean?"
Bailey: "N'om; if I did I'd take some myself."

THE TRACK MEET IN DURHAM

The biggest indoor athletic event ever held in North Carolina took place in the Star Brick Warehouse in Durham last Friday. The attendance was estimated at five thousand and teams were entered from all but two of the colleges, a large number of Y. M. C. A.'s and military units, and many of the high schools in the state.

The University and Chapel Hill high school carried off most of the honor and they earned them, but we don't feel exactly ashamed of our own record. After one week of hard practice our team was in poor shape for the contest and yet we carried off two second places, one in the shot put and one in the relay. Although the team does not say so, it was pure hard luck that kept us out of first place in the relay.

Since we have won two second places with a week's practice, we are hoping that after a month's practice we can win some first places in the meet soon to come off at Chapel Hill.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS THE STUFF

Without exerting themselves, the high school girls beat the town girls' basket-ball team, Saturday night, by a score of 55 to 22. The town team was made up of former members of Oxford's high school teams, who had graduated or left school. The town girls had practiced only once, so their game was necessarily under par. Nevertheless they put up a good fight. Although the game was over since C. Watkins and F. Horner for the high school, showed up well. J. Peed and I. K. Taylor scored most of the town girls' points. It may be interesting to note that four sisters played against each other; Misses Frances Horner and Frances Landis for the high school and Eloise Horner and Mary Landis for the town. The lineup was as follows:

High School	Town
Frances Horner f.	Johnny Peed
Dorothy Parham f.	C. Carroll
C. Watkins c.	Mary Landis
Frances Landis g.	I. K. Taylor
C. Easton g.	Eloise Horner

Substitutions: For High School, Eugenia Currin for Frances Landis, Frances Landis for Eugenia Currin. Referee: Livengood. Time, 40 minutes. Attendance, 100.

ELLIOT COOPER LEAVES

Elliot Cooper, who has been home for the past two months, left Monday for New York, where he will set sail for South America. If Horace Greeley were alive today he would probably say, "Young man, go to South America." Certainly this sister continent of ours is the land of golden opportunity for young fellows who have ambition and grit. We understand that Mr. Cooper possesses both in abundance.

"Spring" Reece had to have his mustache amputated. He went to see his girl the other night and she was chewing gum. Very reasonable!

SPRING IS HERE

When the mocking bird is singing in the willow tree
I know what he is saying, "Spring is here!"
When the pussy willow's blooming
And the pretty doves are cooing
I know that spring is here.
