The silver mines of Colorado are now being worked with greater worth. The main interests of the Should Congress demonitize the comage of silver it would be a severe blow to this State. The President's message intimates that such may be the case. Mr. Cleveland is not popular here, with either democrats or republicans.

The main resources of the State are, as I have stated, grazing and mining. Agriculture takes third place. No crops are raised in any quantity except by irrigation. The mountain streams are full the most of the summer of melted snowwater from the vast snow-fields accumulated in winter, and these streams are utilized by means of irrigation canals to water the soil.
