

STATE GIVES GEN. PERSHING OVATION

Grim War Leader of World Fame Proves To Be Just Folks On Visit Here.

RAIN DOESN'T KILL ARDOR

Greeted by thirty thousand cheering Tar Heels, John J. Pershing, General of the Armies and leader of a hundred million Americans when they were drawn into the caldron of war, rode through the streets of the city yesterday, acclaimed as few in a generation have been acclaimed in the capital of the State to the fair grounds where he spoke at the opening of the 61st State Fair.

From the foot of Fayetteville Street to the Fair grounds a mile and a half away the General passed between the massed walls of cheering humanity, greeting for the first time the man in whom four years ago the hopes of the nation were centered. At the Fair Grounds he spoke to five thousand people about the improvised speakers' stand in the center of a great field.

From the moment he stepped from his private car at the Union Station at 9 o'clock to go to the Executive Mansion for breakfast with Governor Morrison until he boarded it again nine hours later to leave for New Orleans, he was the center of all of Raleigh's thinking and all of Raleigh's formal action. Wherever he went he was acclaimed. Raleigh was looking for the first time upon his face, and Raleigh liked him.

It was a full day, and the coming of the General made the opening of the Fair seem sort of incidental. Pershing was the center, and the thoughts of the most were upon the fair only as the fair was a part of the General's program.

Only mud turtles would have chosen yesterday as a fitting day to begin the State's annual festival of the fair, but even with the mud, there were throngs there all day. Inclement weather cut sharply into the program of events outside the visit of the General, necessitating the abandonment of the racing program, the free acts and slowing up the movement of events generally.

Reviews Troops In Downpour. But rain had not a thing to do with the reception that Raleigh and the State accorded the General. Rain greeted him as he emerged from the station, and he stood in a downpour to review North Carolina's State and R. O. T. C. troops as they passed before him on Hillsboro Street. The clouds lifted a little before his brief address was reached, and the rest of the day was somewhat less wet overhead. Underfoot was a different matter.

Under the generalship of Adjutant General J. Van B. Meets, the day moved according to schedule. The parade moved off on time, it reached the reviewing stand on St. Mary's campus on time; and it reached the fair grounds on time, and but for the panic-stricken abandonment of a runaway team by a negro driver and resultant catastrophe to the gun crew firing the General's salute the last detail of it would have gone by the map.

The General himself is punctual. Nine o'clock found him ready for whatever was planned for him when Josephus Daniels, general chairman of the reception committee, boarded the private car to greet him on behalf of North Carolina. He came off, greeting a hundred or more of the city's leading citizens, handshaking them all. He was very cordial in his greetings. And was "one of the folks" during his busy stay in the State.

Age Does Not Worry Marble Shots A-taw-ll

(THE FRANKLINTON NEWS.) New York may have its world series, Youngsville its horseshoe courts, but Franklinton has its marble links. It is a frequent cause for speculation if there is something in the air in this neighborhood that retains the spirit of a boy in the man. Well there may be, for almost any day and time one can see in the street fronting the Franklinton News office middle age men, and men above sixty years old, shooting marbles.

Yes, it is the very same game that you as a youth played. These older men—grown-up boys—show the same emotions that thrilled you then. The ring is drawn, the marbles placed. There is a moment of tenseness as a man takes his place, perhaps fifteen feet from the ring, takes careful aim and thumps the taw toward the centerman, and the game is on.

Hands have not lost their cunning, though many years have passed since youth, and some remarkable shots are made. Neither have these elderly ring sportsmen any compunction about killing an opponent's taw should opportunity present. There are not safe even at twenty feet—and what is a fifty yard punt or a hundred yard drive when compared with a perfect marble shot of twenty feet over uneven ground?

Although these games have been played for many days it has not been determined who is Franklinton's leading marble shot. One of the surest is William A. Whitfield, manufacturer of Whitfield's Remedy. While he is a more practiced shot than his brother, G. L. Whitfield, optometrist and jeweler, he only leads him by a few points. Others worthy of mention are M. L. Harper of Fixum Quick Shoe Shop, George Barrow, merchant, Cecil Kittle, Lawrence Moye, and other stars.

There has been increasing interest manifested in the game since Mr. G. L. Whitfield returned from Washington with several new laws. No challenges have yet been issued to neighboring towns, but it is felt by followers of the taw, should occasion arise, that Franklinton stars would be victorious and bring honors to their home town.

Co-ops Win Fight To Restrain Contract Breakers; Judge Frank Daniels Grants Permanent Injunction

Plymouth, Oct. 18.—Tobacco co-operatives won today the first round of their fight to have the contract of the Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Association in North Carolina declared legally binding on members.

Judge Frank Daniels, who is presiding over Washington County court here this week, this afternoon announced he would continue the injunction restraining Z. A. Harrell, Edgecombe County tobacco farmer, and W. T. Jones, Nash County tobacco grower, from selling their tobacco outside of the association. The permanent injunction is in substantially the same terms as the temporary restraining order issued by Judge Lyon several weeks ago.

Judge Daniels required the tobacco association to furnish a four thousand dollar bond in each case to protect the interest of the defendants, which was considered a reasonable amount by the co-operatives, as approximately thirty thousand pounds of tobacco is involved in each case. The co-operatives instituted suit against each of the defendants for alleged damages to the amount of 5 cents a pound for all tobacco sold by them outside of the association and for counsel fees amounting, according to the complaint to $350. These cases will take their place on the regular court calendar in Nash County.

Goes to Supreme Court.

Meantime the injunctions continue in force, and the defendants can dispose of no tobacco outside of the association. The granting of the injunctions to prevent violations of the contracts of members of tobacco association is of far more importance, however, than securing damages for tobacco sold outside the association as this will enforce delivery of tobacco to the association by members, if Judge Daniels is upheld by the Supreme Court, and in any event deliveries can be enforced until the higher court passes on the question. Co-operatives are confident that the lower court will be sustained.

Mr. L. B. Eaton Praises Life of Mr. Walter B. Boyd In Open Letter

Mr. Howard F. Jones, Editor Warren Record, Warrenton, N. C.

Dear Sir: Kindly permit me, through the medium of the Warren Record, to pay a brief tribute to the memory of my life-long friend, Mr. Walter B. Boyd, whose untimely death so recently occurred.

An acquaintance of more than forty years would seem to give me warrant to speak of him with authority, and to make an estimate of his character based on personal knowledge.

It is not my purpose to attempt to write his epitaph. That service must be rendered by one more competent.

When young men, as co-partners, we entered the tobacco business in Henderson, N. C., and it was there that I learned that he was a man of the highest integrity, and practiced the strictest ethics in all financial matters.

He had a natural genius for business. He treated it as a science and studied it as a profession. He dignified it and was a faithful devotee of its shrine.

There could be but one result of thorough preparation and fidelity. Success in the highest degree crowned every enterprise he launched, and the golden wand of Croesus was always in his reach.

Like all great captains of industry, he did not leave details to others, but gave them his personal supervision knowing that a structure could not endure if the foundation was weak. Therein lies the secret of his success—thoroughness. It was the key-note of his life.

His knowledge of values and general business conditions in the community—and in the country at large—was perhaps more accurate than that of any man in it, and I say this fully conscious of the fact that some of the ablest business men in North Carolina reside in Warrenton.

By hundreds of farmers in Warren, Franklin, Vance, and Granville Counties he will be remembered better as a warehouseman than as a banker. With the single exception of Mr. D. Y. Cooper, the well known warehouseman of Henderson—who probably was without a peer in that respect in the State—I have never seen Mr. Boyd's equal when conducting the sale of a big break of tobacco. On such an occasion he appeared to be a combination of energy and enthusiasm personified.

In fact, whatever he undertook he put his whole heart and soul in because he was intensely enthusiastic and energetic. Every muscle in his body was vibrant with energy.

To the young business men of Warrenton, those who would rise above the level of mediocrity, I commend the example of this progressive, ambitious and public spirited citizen. The county in my recollection has produced no one more worthy of their emulation.

His life was a lesson in civic virtue. He wrought for the public weal. His watch word was progress.

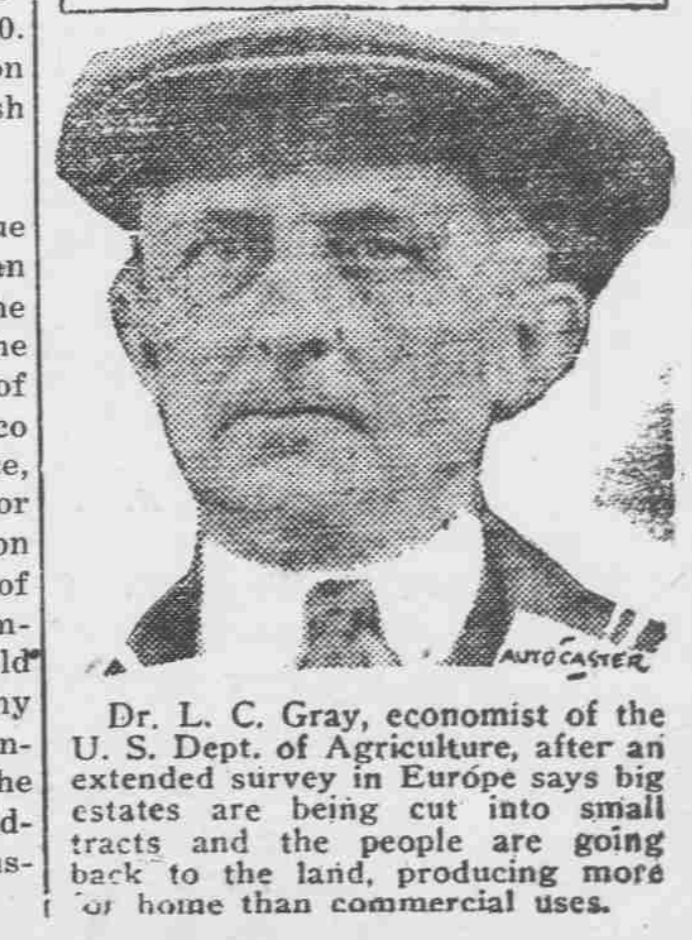

A devoted husband, a consistent churchman, a warm friend, a jovial companion, a gracious host has passed to the "Great Unknown."

I shall miss his hearty greetings and the cordial grasp of his hand; but I will cherish them in my memory as I, too, approach the mystic shore.

L. B. EATON.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14, 1922.

Europe Going Back to Farm

Dr. L. C. Gray, economist of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, after an extended survey in Europe says big estates are being cut into small tracts and the people are going back to the land, producing more of home than commercial uses.

CAPT. PRICE WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

County-Wide Political Rumor Killed By Statement of Deputy Register Deeds.

NAME IS NOT TO BE USED

Killing the persistent political rumor with a positive statement here this week, Capt. E. C. Price, Chairman of the Board of Elections of Warren and deputy Register of Deeds, refused to become a candidate on an independent ticket opposing Simon M. Gardner, democratic nominee at the last primary.

For a month or more the rumor had spread that Capt. Price would be a candidate. Persons from all sections had been interpreting the political weathervanes and the breezes indicated that the deputy register of deeds was to run for the real job, reports had it.

The clouds rolled away, the only approach to a storm was the thunder of rumor, and this clears away with the statement of Capt. Price that he would not oppose or allow his name to be used in opposition to a nominee of the primary.

World Series Baseball Players Receive Checks

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Checks ranging in sums from $50 to $4,545.71 were mailed today from the office of Judge K. M. Landis, Baseball Commissioner, to seventy-four men who participated in the 1922 World's Series games at the Polo Grounds, New York. The checks, each for $2,842.86 were handed to players Jose Bush, Waite Hoyt and Fred Hoffman, of the Yankees, while they were leaving Chicago last Sunday, en route to Japan.

Eighteen Giants, including Manager John McGraw and Coach Hugh Jennings, each received a check for $4,545.71. Five members of the Giants were given individual checks for $4,545.70, which is one cent less than the amounts received by the highest group. One of these was "Cosey" Dolan, the veteran assistant coach.

The veteran pitcher Jess Barnes, received one cent more than his brother, Virgil, who also is a pitcher. The checks of twelve others, including players who were lately added to the Giant roster, ground keepers, trainers, mascots, etc., ranged from $200 to $2,272.85.

Of the twenty-nine checks mailed today to members of the Yankee club members, 23 were for $2,842.86 each, and two for $2,842.85 each, the latter being one cent less than the amounts received by the highest group. The remaining seven checks, represented sums ranging from $50 to $1,421.43.

TOBACCO COMMITTEE FINDS RUMOR UNWARRANTED

The Warren County Executive Committee of the Tobacco Association, having received complaint from some of its members regarding the grading or classification of their tobacco, appointed a committee of investigation composed of Messrs. Jim Bolton, J. K. Pinnell, and G. R. Frazier. After a thorough investigation the findings were to the effect that said rumor was unwarranted, that the work was being done as nearly perfect as it were humanly possible. Mr. Frazier stating that it was beyond his expectation. Mr. Yall Young the Association supervisor of graders was called down from Henderson and swears with uncovered head that to the best of his ability each and every man shall have a square deal.

It is the purpose of this committee to thoroughly investigate this and all other matters brought to their attention, says Chairman W. A. Connell.
