That Justice May Ever Have A
 Champion; That Evil Shall Not Flourish Unchallenged.

Entered at the post office at Warrenton, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of 1879.

The Lord was ready to save me; therefore will I sing my songs to the stringed instruments all the days of our life in the house of the Lord. —Isa. 38:20.

Why does he use harsh words who sees the pleasure which sweet speech yields? It is like eating unripe fruit when ripe is at hand.

Sweet speech flows from love, is free from deceit, and is the right word of the mouth of virtue.

Sweet speech with a cheerful countenance surpasses the gift of the more prosperous. Sorrow shall not increase on those who increase pleasure by constant kindness.

That speech which unites usefulness with sweetness diminishes evil and increases virtue.

That speech which, while imparting benefits, ceases not to please, bears earthly, bears celestial fruit. (Hindu, Cural.)

The sweep of bad colds throughout the country, by many physicians pronounced influenza, calls for caution by all people. There is no need, however, for any hysteria. In another column in this edition the State Health Officer advises the course to pursue when symptoms come and even before. We commend it to the attention of our readers.

LOOKING AHEAD

As we face the days of another year in this county, we submit a program which we think should engage attention. Some of the suggestions may not meet with wide approval, but we believe our people are sufficiently united on most of the number to carry them into effect.

We should have the road to Louisburg hardsurfaced. Commissioner Hill says that this route is already on the highway construction map. This year we should see some action. The road from Norlina to Liberia should be resurfaced with concrete after shoulders have been placed. This route is a disgrace to a State which builds good roads.

We should provide a landing field at Warrenton. Travel is seeking the air lanes more and more. We are well located on prospective lines and we should have an emergency field at least.

Further, citizens of the town of Warrenton should demand a better water system. The change must ultimately be made, and we think that it can be financed this year without materially increasing taxes. Give us good water.

We should take some steps to build a good road from North Warrenton through Warren Plains to connect with the Richmond-Raleigh highway. Such a route would mean much to the citizens of the Warren Plains section and would help this town.

We should provide a hut for the Boy and Girl Scout organizations of the town, and we should lend every assistance possible to a program of planting shrubs and flowers along our streets.

We should lend our assistance financially to the Warren County Memorial library. This institution is serving this county splendidly, but it needs funds to increase its circle of service.

We should concentrate upon a better rural life for our people, urging wise diversification of crops and a policy on the farm which will let the hen, the hog and the cow have some of the attention that cotton and tobacco hold.

We should work hard, look up, learn abundantly to love, laugh and lift to bring a finer life to all our citizenship through understanding and mutual helpfulness.

SORE
Could Not Rest

Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 513 Elm Tree Lane, Lexington, Ky., says:

"Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest.

"The lower part of my body was very sore. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights.

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients.

At all druggists.

OUR HEAVENLY FATHER
 The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 6.
 Our Heavenly Father. Matt. 6:24-34.

THE study of "Some Great Christian Teachings," the general theme of the lessons for the first three months of this year, brings us at once to the greatest of all Christian doctrines—that concerning the fatherhood of God. Here is the whole essential and ultimate basis of religion according to the teaching of Jesus, and here is the great ultimate basis of all true values in life.

If there be at the very heart of this universe a Father of Love, then life itself is precious. No matter how dark may be the corners of the world, no matter how difficult or terrible life's human experience, there can be to life some aspect of optimism and hope.

But if, on the other hand, there be no such supreme Love, if earthly fatherhood and all that is great about it have no counterpart in a larger Fatherhood, there can be little hope for the future. Life's way, if there be no Father of Love, is dark, and its harshest experiences are not only mysterious but are a matter for despair.

Finding Faith

How can we know that there is a God and that he is our Father? It is a matter of faith, and there is no means of knowing except in the way in which Jesus led men to that knowledge. Jesus taught men to find the foundation for faith in God's Fatherhood in their own hearts and in the evidences of goodness that they found in the world about them.

Here, first of all, is the fact of God's care. After we consider all that man can do, he is a dependent creature. He depends upon a power higher than himself even for his food and raiment, and though man has a part to fulfill in the process of securing these things, yet above and beyond all that he can do is the Providence, that provides food for the birds, that clothes the lilies of the field with a glory that even man has not devised, and that lays the foundation of all being.

Jesus says that such providence is an evidence of divine goodness. How can we doubt such a clear and simple fact? Not even the mysteries of the failure of crops, of the disasters and catastrophes that befall human life, can destroy the evidence of that elemental fact that the great processes of nature work for man, for the maintenance of his life, and for his blessing. The law of God's providence is at work in the world of human life, and it is a supreme evidence of God's goodness.

Highest Expression

But in this provision for man's physical being Jesus sees but the stepping stone to the higher truth concerning God's Fatherhood. Could a being who provides for man's physical life fail to make provision for his soul?

We are brought immediately into the realm of the righteousness of God and the love of God, and Jesus enforces this truth, elsewhere by pointing out that Fatherhood in God is simply the highest expression of all that is good in earthly fatherhood.

If we could see old Santy
 I know just what we'd do,
 We'd hug him tight and kiss him,
 And tell him "Thank you," too.

You see when Christmas's over
 We are all so full of fun,
 We forget about our manners
 And what old Santy's done.

We forget how hard he labored
 To make so many toys,
 And give them all away each year,
 To little girls and boys.

And so we'd like to thank him, now,
 Where ever he may be—
 And most of all we'd thank him
 For that lovely Christmas Tree.
 —LUCY T. WEBB.

Are You "Climbing" or Just "Gliding"?

A very lucid illustration of the operation or promotion of modern business is found in a comparison with the operation of a heavier than air flying machine.

The machine may be equipped with all the modern appliances and the Pilot may, by practical experience and training, be thoroughly qualified to successfully manipulate its intricate mechanism and safely conduct it to its intended destination.

Yet in spite of all these advantages and qualifications there is just one thing he is always absolutely dependent on for flight and that is the Propeller. Without it he can never rise from the ground. It is the fundamental principle of progress.

It is only when the Propeller is running with smoothness and regularity that he is able to climb upward, avoiding danger and disaster, and continues to climb only as the Propeller continues to function without intermission.

What would you say of an Aviator who started out to make a record for altitude and after climbing to a certain height decided that as everything seemed to be running smoothly he could dispense with the expense of operating the Propeller and continue to climb?

But that is the very thing that some Retail Merchants are trying to do today. They use the Advertising Propeller to start with and after getting a good start feel secure enough to neglect its use.

Do they continue to climb? Do they maintain the same altitude? Do they affect a saving? They do not. At that very moment they start to "glide"—not a sudden fall to the ground but a gentle easy descent—for there is no such thing as remaining stationary.

When you stop the Propeller you start to "glide"; when you start the Propeller you commence to "climb."

ARE YOU "CLIMBING" OR JUST "GLIDING"?
