VARIETY OF SEASON'S STYLES PERMITS CLEVER WOMEN TO COPY THEM EASILY—HARRIET LISTS IMPORTANT STYLE POINTS THIS WEEK

New Lines Are Boon to Home Sewers

, BY HARRIET

THE woman who is clever with a needle could have received nothing more appropriate for Christmas than, yard goods for, now that fashions have become so diversified, women have more opportunity than ever before to make stylish costumes at home.

Of course, the yard goods needn't have been a Christmas gift! It is just as easy for the clever woman to pick up bargains at the January sales and make them into extremely original things for herself and family.

This week's article might appropriately be a summary, therefore, of style points from New York and Paris. First, there's flare in the air, whether it be in France or America. Coats, frocks, slips and even night gowns have flare in them, usually below a tight hipline.

Fullness Is Good

Circular skirts and gored skirts have preference over straight ones. But godets or inserts of pleats below a fitted hip-yoke of some distinctive shape are equally

Rear fullness is coming into vogue more and more. The allround pleated skirt and the skirt with circular back are both seen. Gored skirts make much of their gores by fancy seaming that emphasizes them.

Softening lines, lingerie touches, a bow here and there and a combination of materials for trimming are all new points of chic.

Velvet Is Youthful

Take the spring coat from Lelong, pictured at the left, for instance. It is made of black velvet and trimmed with ermine. Its fullness comes below the hipline, in the form of a whole circular flounce, put on in points. And inside its little flaring ermine collar a bow tie of the velvet makes frock in soft, light green (inset, noon and evening. The cardigan
