

HERE - THERE

A column of comment on persons and things seen here and there over the roads of Carolina.

By BRODIE JONES

"How're you feeling, buddy?" Such was the greeting to a fellow editor this week.

"Like a tadpole in a shallow mudhole—just wiggling along," he answered.

The comparison might well be passed along to Sidney Smith, creator of "Andy Gump."

After a lively, folksy Kiwanis meeting at Hotel Warren the other night and while the flow of comment was continued in smaller groups within the lobby, W. H. Dameron called me to the door and then we went across to look upon the banquet in the social room of the Methodist church.

An atmosphere of merriment was prevailing. Gay hats, laughter, wholesome good cheer were all in the picture. Bill Dameron was toastmaster and while we were taking a view from the street, everything seemed to move smoothly with the younger crowd. In the language of the social reporter, "A good time was had by all."

One doesn't see goat carts every day up in this section, but travel that way is popular down at Scotland Neck. I saw three outfits on parade down there this week, and children were trooping along behind the carts, waiting their chance for a ride.

The Roanoke river has been on a rampage down Weldon way, and travel to Jackson had to be routed by Scotland Neck for three days last week. Lowlands near the bridges at Roanoke Rapids and Weldon were under water.

Marmaduke Items

There has been so much rain of late that all the creeks and branches stay up so much that there isn't much visiting being done these days.

President Hoover Starts The Official Grind With Rush

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Herbert Hoover started his first working day as president with a rush.

It was an able demonstration of the tireless energy of the man who will occupy the White House for the next four years.

There was no let-down in the day's activities. Appearing at his office at 8:55 a. m., rested and anxious to begin the serious work of running the government, Mr. Hoover set a fast pace for his assistants to follow.

He conferred twice with Secretary of State Kellogg on the Mexican situation, and decided to maintain the same position held by the United States for the past five years. He conferred with Chairman Work, of the Republican National Committee, and later with national committee-men.

He shook hands with 2,500 visitors—a record by 600 to any previous crowd shaking hands with a president with the exception of the New Year's receptions.

He held his first press conference and chatted informally with more than 100 newspapermen who had gathered to learn his views on press relations.

He met 10 representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic and personally thanked them for acting as his guard of honor during the inaugural ceremonies yesterday.

He sent his cabinet appointees to the senate and learned later they were confirmed in 15 minutes.

He and Mrs. Hoover lunched, with Mrs. Mollie Currens, his boyhood school teacher at West Branch, Iowa, and Mr. Currens as guests.

The lunch period was short, and in less than one hour Mr. Hoover was back again at his desk.

In spite of all of this activity, the president had time to think of Mrs. Hoover and request secret service men to send the cowboy band of Simmons University, Texas, who serenaded him, over to the "Front Porch" of the White House so his wife could hear it.

THE TORCH

A department conducted for The Warren County Memorial Library. By MABEL DEVIS The Librarian

Recent purchases include sixteen books for the young people's section and the following for adult readers: "The Bishop Murder Case," Van Dine; "The Snake Pit," Undset; "Denmark's Best Short Stories," Norton; "The Fourth Musketeer," Dubeton; "Falsehood in Our Time," Ponsony; "Bernice Prince Charlie," Cludsey; "The Idiot," and "Brothers Karamazov," Dostoevsky; "Mother of Kings," Richardson; "County Government in North Carolina," Wager.

The library is indebted to Mrs. C. R. Rodwell for "Life of Pasteur," by Valery Radot, and "Bird Neighbors," Blanchan; to Mrs. W. H. Dameron for "Peter Victorious," Rolvaag, and "Joseph and His Brethren," Freeman. These books were bought especially for the library and are duly appreciated.

The library has also been the recipient of a large number of books from other friends recently which will receive consideration in this column a little later. It is also indebted to Mrs. R. J. Jones, Mrs. M. C. Winston and Mrs. Beddoe for appreciated contributions to the book fund.

Sixteen hundred and fifty-four volumes were borrowed from the library for home use during the month of February. The highest score since the library opened.

A Car Load of Tennessee Mules

for the Farmers of Warren

I have just received a car load of fine Tennessee mules. This stock is in fine condition and may be seen at my stables at Warrenton.

The prices are reasonable, and terms may be arranged.

I believe that this is the best lot that I have had this season, and if you want a mule, it will pay you to see these before you buy anywhere.

It won't be long until another county teachers' meeting, and right now we extend an invitation for all teachers to visit us. Definition of a pedestrian: A girl who won't neck. Companionate marriages will be more attractive when they invent the companionate mother-in-law. "Wow, I'm as tight as a boiled egg." "Too bad Columbus isn't here. He could make you stand up." Mabel: "Did you say he doesn't know how to kiss?" Hazel: "No; I said he didn't know how to kiss." Girls once rejected a man because of his weak chin. Now it's his weak gin. Edythe: "I suppose that this talk about college man's life being all wine, women and song is exaggerated." Frederyck: "It certainly is; you very seldom hear singing in the dormitories." She (demurely): "Do you consider my legs long?" He: "yes, whenever possible." She (returning to ballroom): "Please pardon my negligence." He: "Don't mention it. I thought it was your petticoat." "Ride with Ethyl and get the benefit of high compression—oh, Ethyl!"

The boys have been talking about a swimming pool even in these early March days. We are for the pool. Look ahead to Summer, and when you want a nifty bathing cap for that attractive pool, why come on here. Motor Cop (to fair motorist): "You were speeding; I've got to pinch you." Fair Motorist: "Oh, please; if you must, do it where it won't show." Man (in search of his wife): "Bridget, do you know anything of my wife's whereabouts?" Bridget: "Yes, sir, I put them in the wash." "Great Scott. I've forgotten who wrote Ivanhoe," whispered a sophomore to his neighbor on examination day. "I'll tell you if you tell me who the dickens wrote 'The Tale of Two Cities,'" his neighbor whispered back. That Palmolive soap we are talking about in this edition is well worth your attention. "I wonder," said the old lady at the dance, "what has become of the old-fashioned girl who used to drop her eyes, raise her face and say: 'You must ask Papa.'" "She has a daughter," answered the girl, "who says, 'shove her into high kid! The old man's gaining on us!'" "My girl has lots of personality." "Mine isn't good looking either."
