ADMINISTRATION HELD TO BLAME

Democrats Say Tariff Fiasco Must Rest Squarely With Hoover Administration

STATE OF UNCERTAINTY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.-"The recent adjournment of the special session of Congress without final action on the tariff revision bill amounts to a confession of impctence on the part of the present administration," says a statement of the Democratic National Congressional Committee issued today through its Chairman, Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee.

"Meanwhile," continued Mr. Byrns, "business must continue in a state of uncertainty, not knowing what the tariff policy is to be for the next few years. Blame for the tariff fiasco must rest squarely with the Hoover administration, and efforts to place it at the doorstep of Democrats and progressive Republican Senators need not be taken seriously. The Republican administration has a nominal majority of more than 100 votes in the House and of 17 in the Senate. If the administration does not possess the leadership to make this nominal majoriy a cohesive, working majority, the blame cannot by any stretch of the imagination be placed on Democrats. The Hoover administration came into power with a huge vote of confidence and apparently overwhelming majorities in the two Houses of Congress. It thus accepted the responsibility of government, and if it cannot maintain solidarity and function by enacting necessary legislation. it must take the blame therefor and expect to be held accountable by the people at the next election.

"Administration apologists are blaming Democrats and progressive Republicans for the tariff debacle. Instead of being censured, they ought to be praised for their refusal to permit the tariff monstrosity which the House passed, known as the Hawley bill, to be saddled upon the backs of the consuming public. Instead of the administration attempting to keep its the steel companies making it apcampaign pledge to revise the tariff parent that they actually need litso as to reduce the disparity between agriculture and industry, the bill which it sponsored and did force through the House actually widened that disparity. That accounts for the revolt of western progressive Senators against the tariff program the administration would have written into law. Furthermore, that revolt helped keep from adding between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000 to the annual living costs of the American people as economists estimate the House would have done.

"President Hoover called the Congress into special session to pass a farm bill and to make a limited revision of the tariff. After seven months, it adjourns with the record of having passed a farm bill the farm organizations did not approve and which they might have

If Red Lady got paid for her work, she would receive a salary of more than $1000, figuring butter and milk at current prices.

At the time, economists estimated this would add upwards of $19,000,000 annually to the Steel Corporation's income. The Hawley bill, as it passed the House, would have made $1.121-2 per ton the basic duty on pig iron. The Senate coalition rejected this increase, the recent huge profits of tle or no tariff protection.
