

BRUCE BARTON Says:

Let Them Howl
 Coming to work Monday morning with a heart full of peace and love, I found two letters on my desk.

One of them had been a reader's letter, but your last editor had been the best you ever have. I have cut it out and am going to frame it and hang it in my office.

The other letter referred to the editorial:

"Such a bunch of boloney!"

Being naturally a sensitive person, I suffered from criticism in my office. Once, when an article contained a blunder for which the editor received caustic remarks, I felt so sick I stayed in bed one day.

But as time went on I developed a philosophy as to criticism and so, to me, must every man who is going to get anything done. The point in that philosophy is that you can't please everybody, and that much criticism, good or bad, is entirely unimportant.

One can not be guided too much by the public because the public is changeable. Every public character of any influence has been unpopular at some time in his career.

Criticism is good for us. We need to know how well meaning or how unmeaning it may be. One time when Mr. Morley was being severely criticized by the English press Gladstone said to him: "Take it from me that to endure trampling on one's patience and self-control is no element in the preparation of a man for walking firmly and successfully in the path of great publicity. Be sure that discipline is an element of blessing."

Finally, and in the last analysis a man has to do his best and go forward. A famous old English philosopher had this motto, of which I am fond: "Never explain, never retract, never apologize. Get things and let them howl."

Let's Preach Positive Faith
 There are an eminent economist and an idea.

Selecting one protestant denomination whose records had been carefully set down the number of new members added each year. Opposite this, in another column, he classified each year from an economic standpoint as prosperous or bad.

The year 1895 was a bad year; sixteen thousand people joined the particular church. In 1896 came a year and new members jumped to fifty thousand.

Then years of "good" times, but each time for the church, until the year of 1873, when up shot the membership, reaching a "new high" of 1871, when prosperity registered "new low."

I fancy the same thing is happening today; at least our church has been full recently. Last Sunday a preacher said that religion consists in being able to recognize the extraordinary in the ordinary things of life.

Many people see the turmoil of the present, and say: "It is confusion; it is anarchy; it is hopeless." Those who are wiser say: "It is a remodeling. His world into a better and better image. Let us bestir ourselves and go forward."

The sermon lifted us. It was a prophetic voice announcing the Power which made the world has not deserted it, is still clinging on it. It made us feel that ought to life our eyes and be glad. Let these great and far-reaching changes come to pass without our recognizing them.

Advise all preachers these days preach a positive faith. To put people or discourage them, and to have any sermons that criticize people's confidence, courage, and hope.

What we need this now. If the church provide it, the church will make gains.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up
 Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength builds up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Smith of Boston, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to have any strength back. I took Cardui and the sound and well. I have since told to my daughters and recommend it to the ladies. . . . Thousands of women have benefited them. If it does not help you, consult a physician."
