

Game Protector Lists Boating Equipment Laws

letters and numerals must be. Before you take your boat out for a spin on North Carolina waters, be sure that everything aboard, including the certificate of registration, is in proper legal order.

Alton Pridden, wildlife protector in Warren County, warned that all Tarheel boatowners should keep abreast of state and federal boating laws.

Pridden said that carbon tetrachloride fire extinguishers and others of the toxic vaporizing-liquid type such as chlorobromomethane are no longer approvable equipment as of January 1, 1962. The U. S. Coast Guard withdrew approval of this equipment effective December 6, 1958, but allowed use of these extinguishers until January 1 of this year in order that boatmen could replace them with approved foam, carbon dioxide or dry chemical types.

Pridden also reminded boatowners that only Coast Guard approved lifesaving devices would be considered as legal equipment. Lifesaving equipment that cannot be Coast Guard approved will not satisfy legal requirements, and will be dealt with accordingly.

POINTERS FOR POULTRY PROJECTS

During the months of February and March there will be many farmers and 4-H'ers starting their poultry projects for the year. Below are some points to keep in mind in brooding baby chicks.

1. Get ready for the chicks well in advance before their arrival. Clean poultry house and equipment with lye water, a steam cleaner or high pressure sprayer. Allow to dry and disinfect interior of the house thoroughly.
2. Have feeders and waterers filled and brooder temperature at proper level before chicks arrive.
3. Brooder temperature should be 90 to 95 degrees F. two inches above the litter for the first week. Reduce temperature 5 degrees F. per week until 70 degrees F. is reached. A good guide is to regulate the brooder temperature at a level at which chicks appear to be most comfortable.
4. Each chick should be allowed a minimum of 7 square inches of brooder space under

"For their own safety," Pridden said, "boaters must obtain approved lifesaving devices, and citations will be issued for using improper lifesaving equipment."

"State and Federal laws are explicit about boat numbers," Pridden added, "and citations will be issued to operators of improperly numbered boats. The number assigned to the boat and no other shall be painted on or attached to the bow and must be distinctly visible and clearly legible. The of plain block design, not less than three inches high, and of a color which will distinctly contrast with the background."

the hover. For electric brooders, up to 10 square inches per chick may be needed.

5. For chicks reared in confinement allow a minimum of 1/2 square foot of brooder room floor space per chick through six weeks, and a minimum of one square foot per bird from 7 to 12 weeks.

6. Allow chicks the following feeder space: Day old through 2 weeks—100 linear inches per 100 chicks—three weeks through 6 weeks—175 linear inches per 100 chicks; seven weeks through 8 weeks—300 linear inches per 100 chicks.

A four-foot hopper open to birds from both sides provides 96 linear inches of feeding space. Same principle applies to watering space.

7. Use all-night lights equivalent to 15 watts per 200 square feet of floor space.

8. Prevent cannibalism by allowing plenty of floor space, reducing temperature rapidly, providing plenty of feeder space, covering windows to admit only subdued light.

9. Don't starve the chicks—feed them as soon as possible. Sprinkle feed on paper, box lids, or filler flats under the hover for the first day or two. Use a commercial feed. Have grits available at all times. Fine chick grain is sometimes given the first two days to prevent "pasting up."

Get ready for your chicks now!
