"The new furniture, rugs and TV set we bought at Christmas time—I'm sure our Household Fire policy doesn't cover them. We also received cameras and sporting goods. Does the Warrenton Insurance Agency advise a post-Christmas free survey of insurance policies to be sure of reasonably good coverage?"

Future Teachers Have Supper Meet

The John Graham Chapter of the Future Teachers of America met at Hotel Warren on Monday, December 30, when a delicious buffet supper was served. The meeting was called to order by the president, Bonnie Gupton.

The program consisted of a panel discussion, "The Role of a Teacher in Guidance and Counseling." The panelists were Al Blalock, Sally Peoples, and Principal Kenneth Bryson. Mrs. Ed Fishel acted as moderator. Mrs. Ed Fishel and Mrs. Barker Williams, advisor, were among the twenty present.

Ellen Shearin, Secretary.

Trans-World Airlines (TWA) perishable cargo jets are flying. Five hours from the San Francisco-Los Angeles area to New York with fresh fruits and vegetables. Overnight to London. These new jets have a 90,000 pound cargo capacity and make it possible to transport the highest quality products to market with a minimum of transit deterioration.

The initial flight, on Dec. 6, carried lettuce, broccoli, asparagus, celery hearts, artichokes, figs, and last-of-the-season strawberries from California. Thus an ultra-modern system of transportation has been made available to the shippers of perishable fresh produce.

According to a recent study made by the Washington State University, fresh fruits and vegetables are still favored by the consuming public. Here are some of the reasons why this is true.

When fresh fruits and vegetables were in season, the majority of housewives bought them. Fruits were important as afternoon and evening snacks. Fresh was thought to be "most tasty" and "nutritious". The families surveyed served fresh fruits and vegetables frequently. Almost two-thirds served fruits at breakfast seven days a week. Ninety-five per cent of the families served vegetables (other than potatoes) seven times a week. Potatoes appeared at dinner every day in almost one-third of the households.

There were some unfavorable reactions. Sixty per cent feel that fresh fruits were priced too high in and out of season. Fresh vegetables were priced too high when out of season. Most meal planners considered the processed products more convenient to use.

The findings of this study, that the majority of the consumers favor fresh fruits and vegetables, supports results obtained from previous studies.

It is indicated that more research will be initiated to develop methods to prolong the periods of availability and to maintain fresh produce at optimum freshness and quality throughout the harvesting and marketing periods. The population is growing and the demand for fruits and vegetables both fresh and processed, will increase at a rapid rate, because approximately 42 per cent of our daily diet is composed of fruits and vegetables.
