

North Warren High Senior Selected 'Achievement Scholar'

Milton Goodwin Davis, North Warren High School senior, has been selected as an "Achievement Scholar" by the National Achievement Program for Outstanding Negro Students, G. H. Washington, principal of the school announced yesterday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Davis of Rt. 1, Wise.

Washington said that this honor is a form of "educational insurance" that will enable Milton to attend the college of his choice within limits of $1,000 minimum and $6,000 maximum for four years. He is one of 292 outstanding students who were selected from over 30,000 students nationwide.

A straight "A" student throughout his entire school career, Milton has achieved success and distinction in many co-curricular activities on both local and state levels. He enjoys competition and action in any form. "It brings out the best as well as the worst in people," he says. Even though he participates in no varsity sport, he satisfies his desire for activity in other ways. He is currently vice-president of the North Carolina Brown and Scepter Honor Society, Student Council and Drama Guild and vice president of the senior class. He is an active member of the Aurora Chapter of the Future Teachers of America, Debate Society, and Future Farmers of America. He has further distinguished himself as a public speaker having won the World Peace Speaking Contest for two successive years; he won third place in statewide competition on parliamentary procedure. As captain of the Affirmative Debating Team, he was named best speaker on two different occasions.

Milton wants to explore the fields of science and math. "This, he says, gives me a chance to think and to put my mind to work." He hopes to attend either Duke University or The Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina, in order to study for a degree in Mechanical Engineering.

"Living, said Milton, is a process of continuously proving oneself against seemingly unbeatable odds." Even though he is definitely not a loner, he believes that a person's most important responsibility is to himself. First he must prove to himself that he is right, and then the next step is up to him.

Washington said that Milton's extraordinary image as a young citizen and leader is built on the belief about the measure of a man. He believes that there are many things against which a man should measure himself and that in order to find true happiness, he must come to grips with himself and use his self-realization to help others to the same heights.
