BISHOP'S BREAD . . . A VIENNESE CLASSIC

Try This Special Cake For Easter

Easter foods are a culinary high point of the year. The world over, women bake wonderful pastries to have on hand for callers or for the family itself. The Russians have the classic Koulch, a bread so delicate that pillows are put about the pan to keep the dough from falling. The Polish homemaker makes a Babka, a word meaning "grandmother," because the cake looks like an elderly woman with wide skirts.

Women of every nationality pride themselves on their baking, and perhaps none are as skillful at the art as the Viennese; that's why a good Viennese pastry recipe is virtually worth its weight in gold. This season, try delectable Viennese Bishop's Bread — it adds luster to the Easter breakfast, to the refreshments you serve guests during the afternoon, or just to keep on hand during the holiday week.

Bishop's Bread is near relative to the fruitcake, a sweet bread too great to have only during holiday time. Into the batter go raisins, candied cherries, nuts, and a "mellow surprise element"—semi-sweet chocolate pieces. The chocolate flavor complements the fruit to perfection.

Chiffon soft-type margarine, containing pure liquid safflower oil, adds its own fine flavor to the batter, too.

Lemon Spread makes Bishop's Bread taste even more delicious. Just blend together the soft-type margarine with confectioners' sugar, lemon rind and lemon juice, and you get a tangy spread that also goes beautifully with toast, muffins, or teabreads.

This Easter, take a tip from the Viennese and keep a loaf or two of Bishop's Bread on hand. You'll waltz through your holiday entertaining.

BISHOP'S BREAD

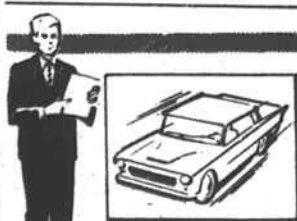

- 1/2 cup Chiffon soft-type margarine containing safflower oil
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 2 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/3 cup finely chopped nuts
- 1/3 cup chopped candied cherries
- 1/3 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1/3 cup raisins

Blend together Chiffon soft-type margarine, sugar and vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; gradually blend into margarine mixture alternately with milk. Stir in nuts. Coat inside of 9x5 x3 inch loaf pan with soft-type margarine; turn in batter. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven 1 hour and 5 to 10 minutes, until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from pan; cool. Spread top with Frosting*. Serve with Lemon Spread. YIELD: 1 loaf.

*Frosting: Blend together 2 tablespoons soft-type margarine, 1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 tablespoon milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Lemon Spread: Blend together 1/2 cup soft-type margarine and 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar. Stir in 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. YIELD: 3/4 cup.

Protestantism was established as the religion of England by Henry VIII in 1534.
