Continuing last week's article on the Junior Livestock Show and sale, five additional pictures are presented.

Next you see Steven George Bender, Rt. 2, Norlina, moving his Hereford steer into the proper position. This 935 pound choice steer was purchased by Peoples Bank and Trust Company, Norlina, represented by Jimmy Medlin shown on the left. Mrs. R. B. Butler is shown representing Mount Olive Pickle Company who sponsored this animal. B. W. Currin, auctioneer, knocked off this choice steer to Mr. Medlin for 38 cents per pound.

In the last photo, Floyd Williams, Rt. 3, Warrenton, has his Hereford steer placed and under control. Smith Douglass, Warrenton, represented by (l to r): Willie Grant and Perry Twitty, sponsored and purchased this choice 920 pound animal for 38 cents per pound.

May we again extend compliments and gratitude to everyone participating in this show and sale. There is no doubt about it, it must be a strong candidate for the top livestock event of the year.

Macon Native Honored

RALEIGH—John L. Reitzel, assistant commissioner of agriculture for North Carolina and Thomas G. Harris, a supervisor of Albemarle Paper Co., at Roanoke Rapids, were honored by North Carolina State University Tuesday (May 2) as outstanding alumni.

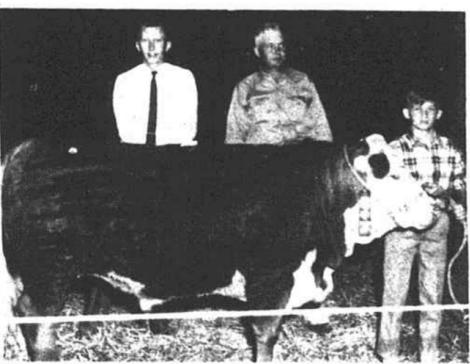

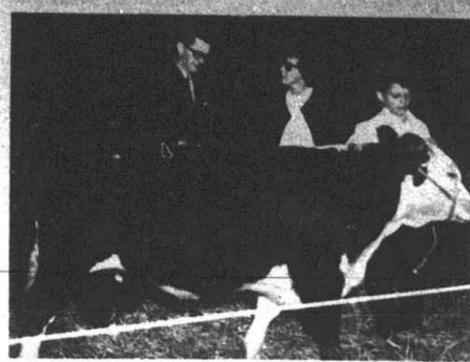

Reitzel and Harris were initiated into the scientific honorary society, Gamma Sigma Delta, for their professional service and achievements since graduating from N. C. State.

Gamma Sigma Delta, a national honorary society for agriculture and forestry sciences, initiated five faculty members, two alumni and 18 students at its annual banquet at the NCSU Student Union.

Harris, now manager of the wood department of Albemarle Paper Company, Roanoke Rapids, graduated in forestry from North Carolina State University in 1941.

He was born in Macon, in 1920 and enrolled first at Louisburg College. In 1937 he transferred to N. C. State for an education in forestry. He earned his degree in forestry in 1941.

Harris entered the armed services and served in the European Theatre when he was decorated with the Purple Heart, the Bronze Star and the Oak Leaf Cluster. After his discharge as a captain in 1946, he continued his career with paper production.

He is a past president of the Roanoke Rapids Kiwanis Club, a member of the board for the American Pulpwood Association and president of the N. C. Forestry Association. He is currently a member of the executive committee of the APA.

In 1965 he was awarded the Governor's Award for Forestry conservation by the N. C. Wildlife Federation.

News From The General Assembly

By Rep. James D. Speed

RALEIGH — The drive for East Carolina College to become a university, separate from the Consolidated University, is probably settled so far as the 1967 legislative session is concerned; but the scars of the battle will remain, and the ghost of East Carolina College will haunt many politicians for two more years.

The issue will be mentioned many times by many people before a new governor is elected. All of the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, during the campaign of 1968, will have to make their positions known long before the primaries and general election. Many legislators will also have to make their positions known, especially in the Eastern half of the state, where there will be no more fence-straddling on this issue.

The depth of the incision made on North Carolina politics by the ECC fight will be well diagnosed in the 1968 campaigns, and I predict that East Carolina College will become a separate university soon after the 1969 session convenes.

Further evidence of the tight controls that have been exercised by the President of the Consolidated University, the Executive Committee of the Consolidated University, Board of Trustees and the Board of Higher Education has been uncovered during the East Carolina University fight.

Several bills have been introduced to revamp the membership of the University Board of Trustees and to move the office of the President from the campus at Chapel Hill to a more centrally located spot.

These proposals will continue to keep the heat on, but the East Carolina University supporters are showing little interest in the proposed revisions. They will continue to campaign for a separate university on the Greenville campus rather than agree to come under the Consolidated University's framework.

Last Monday night was the technical deadline for introducing local bills in the 1967 session and the result was an unusually heavy flow of introductions to beat this deadline. Forty-six bills, mostly local in nature, were introduced last Friday and a total of 131 were sent up in the House and Senate on Monday night.

Although May 1 was the deadline for introducing local bills I have cleared the way with the committee on Rules for the introduction of several additional measures pertaining to Franklin and Warren Counties.

A bill is now being completed which would make salary adjustments for the elected officials of Franklin County and their staff. Little change has been made in the originally proposed salary schedule since the board of commissioners of Franklin County along with many public citizens felt that the original bill was fair and practical in every respect. No one voiced any opposition except the editor of the Franklin Times. The department heads of our county government who were affected by adjustment did express a hope that the salaries could have been made slightly more and also stated that they felt there was no discrimination as The Times editor suggested.

Another bill is being prepared at the request of the Warren County board of commissioners, superintendent of Warren County schools and the Warren County Board of Education to make a salary adjustment of the members of the Warren County Board of Education.
