RAGAN

Sam Ragan To Head Campaign For Girl Scouts Council

Sam Ragan of Southern Pines, publisher of the Southern Pines Pilot, has been appointed Council Campaign Chairman for the nineteen county Pines of Carolina Girl Scout Council. The campaign, which began on Monday, Oct. 13, will continue through Friday, Oct. 17.

Ragan announced the campaign goal would be $20,000. Community campaign chairmen in Warren County are Mrs. Dennis Rose of Littleton and Mrs. Charles White of Warrenton.

Ragan, owner-editor of The Pilot, was executive editor of The News and Observer and The Raleigh Times until Jan. 1, 1969. In addition to membership in many civic and literary organizations he has taught journalism and creative writing courses at North Carolina State University and since early this year has conducted a weekly television program of commentary, "The Sam Ragan Report," on WTVD, Channel 11.

Bricklayers To Compete At Fair

RALEIGH — Bricklayer apprentices from throughout North Carolina will compete for bond prizes and trophies Oct. 20 in the 16th annual N. C. Apprentice Bricklaying Contest to be held at the State Fair. Featuring bond prizes of $200, $100 and $50 for the three top ranking contestants, plus engraved trophies for the champion bricklayer apprentice and his employer, the popular competition is open to registered apprentices who have completed no more than 4,000 hours of their training under the State-sponsored apprenticeship training program.

Local area apprentices who have registered as contestants and will be on hand Oct. 20 to show their bricklaying skills are:

Harold A. Durham, of Henderson. Durham is employed and receiving his apprenticeship training with John Foster, Masonry Contractor, of Henderson. He has been in training for 14 months.

Lucious M. Fogg, of Route 1, Warrenton. Fogg is employed and receiving his apprenticeship training with Allen and Fleming, Masonry Contractors, of Henderson. He has been in training for five months.

Both Durham and Fogg receive related technical training in the theory of their trade, as well as their on-the-job experience as bricklayer apprentices.

Other apprentices from the Henderson-Warrenton area who have qualified to participate in the contest are William A. Hill, of Boydton, Va., who is being trained by Allen & Fleming Masonry Contractors, of Henderson and has been in training for five months; and James E. Privette, of Route 3, Warrenton, William H. Johnson, of Route 1, Warrenton and James T. Johnson, of Route 1, Warrenton, all of whom are training as bricklayer employees of Foster Construction Company, of Henderson. Privette has been in training for 17 months, William Johnson for 19 months, and James Johnson for 14 months.

Yarborough Williams, Jr., of Route 2, Warrenton, who has been training for 18 months with Eugene H. Morrow Construction Company, of Mebane, will also be a participant in the contest.

PLASTIC BOOK COVERS
Cover your children's schoolbooks with plastic yard goods, suggests Mrs. Ann M. Bravell, home economics extension agent, Scotland County. Pliable plastic is easy to shape for books and is very durable, she adds. Covers can be cleaned with a sudsy sponge, keeping books clean and fresh as new all year long.

Warren 'Good Citizens' Attend Raleigh Meeting

Three Warren County "DAR Good Citizens" were among high school seniors from District Six of the Daughters of the American Revolution who were honored guests Saturday in Raleigh on "Good Citizens Day."

These three girls were selected by their respective schools and sponsored by the Warren DAR Chapter, Warrenton. Miss Mary Elizabeth Daniel of Littleton High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Daniel; Miss Diane Tharrington of John Graham High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Tharrington; and Miss Harriet Sabrowski of Norlina High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sabrowski, were Warren DAR "Good Citizens" attending.

The girls were accompanied to Raleigh by Mrs. J. E. Rooker, Jr., of Warrenton, Warren DAR Regent, Mrs. J. Milton Stokes, Chapter DAR Good Citizens, chairman, and Mrs. E. A. Daniel, of Littleton.

Mrs. J. S. Kirchheimer, Jr., of Raleigh, District Six Director, met the group at the Y. M. C. A. on Hillsborough Street. They toured the Governor's Mansion, the State House and the birthplace of Andrew Johnson. Following the tour a luncheon was held at the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Kirchheimer presided at the luncheon. She reported that the Sixth District DAR "Good Citizens" award winner would be announced later.

Other "Good Citizens" from Durham, Henderson, Oxford, Wake Forest, Raleigh and Chapel Hill attended. Including visitors and DAR officers, approximately 45 were in attendance.

Mrs. John Carter Goldsborough of Charlotte is State DAR Regent and Mrs. C. G. Royster of Bullock has been elected as the incoming District Director of the Sixth District. She was also present for "Good Citizens" day.

Wounded Soldier Is Visiting Sister Here

Pfc. Barney Wilson, a 1967 graduate of Hawkins High School, has returned home from Vietnam where he was wounded on June 25. He is now visiting his sister, Mrs. Clementine Robinson, of Route 2, Macon.

After his 30 days leave, Pfc. Wilson will return to Fort Dix, N. J., for treatments.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pryor Rodwell attended the convocation commemorating the 176th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East, Oct. 12, 1793, and the dedication of the Josephus Daniels Building, The Frank Porter Graham Student Union and the Robert Burton House Library at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill on Sunday afternoon. They also attended open house at the three new buildings.

If you want something different from your neighbors, or wish to create a point of interest in your home landscape, make arrangements now to espalier-train a suitable plant as you have time during the dormant season.

The word Espalier means a trellis, framework (or wall) on which fruit trees or shrubs are trained in flattened form. The trellis may be made by using No. 9 galvanized wire attached to posts and stretched taut. Two or three wires may be attached and spaced about two feet apart, the first wire being two feet above ground. The framework may be shaped according to the pattern you wish to follow in training your plant. Any suitable wall (brick or wood) can be used.

The advantage of the trellis, or framework, lies in the fact that you can place either in full sun. This does not rule out the wall but it will be best not to use a wall in deep shade, as most of the plants suitable for espalier training require some sunshine. The trellis is better adapted for formal patterns while the wall is best suited for informal ones.

While a number of plants are suitable for espalier training, perhaps the most commonly used are dwarf apple and pear trees, probably because of their early popularity in France and England. Others would include pyracantha, lilac, flowering quince, crabapple.

I suggest that you start with your plants so that training can begin as soon as planted. Ask your local nurseryman to help you select a plant that will require the minimum of initial pruning.

plant some extra care, so begin with a good job of planting. The next step is selecting and training your main branches so they will conform to whatever formal or informal pattern you select and also to the flat surface, if against a wall.

Frequent pruning during the growing season will be necessary to properly direct the growth and maintain the flattened form. This will consist of careful thinning out and heading back as needed.

It will be necessary that the main stems or branches be tied to the trellis or wall. You can figure out the best way to do this. Just remember that precautions should be taken not to use anything around the branch that will girdle it or constrict growth.
