Drewry Community 4-H Club Holds UN Program Supper

In keeping with National 4-H Club Week and United Nations Week in October, the Drewry Community 4-H Club had a United Nations supper meeting on October 5th, in the home of Mrs. Roger Fleming.

Throughout the basement, there was an atmosphere of foreign countries with decorations from different countries used as centerpieces on each table. Each member brought a different food for the meal made from the country they chose to represent. They also attended the meeting dressed to represent their chosen country. Some members ventured so far as to use chop sticks to eat their oriental foods but eventually gave in to return to their own native dinnerware to finish their meal.

The meal consisted of salads, vegetables, meat dishes, breads, desserts and tea from countries of Germany, Japan, Switzerland, Cuba, Mexico, Hawaii, Argentina, Italy, Greece, France, Spain, India, as well as the United States.

Before the meal was over each member was given an opportunity to show and tell something of interest about the country they represented.

The meeting was then called to order by President Barbara Barker. Mrs. Eugene Wilson, adult leader, introduced Jimmy Cobb from Vance County - Cokesbury 4-H Club who presented his state winning demonstration on Shock-proof motors. Laura Bender, also a state winner, gave her demonstration on the use of the electric knife. Paul Fleming gave the devotion. The pledges were given by the members and business discussed.

The meeting closed with the group singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee".

Twenty members, two leaders, and nine visitors attended the meeting.

Saturday, October 10, has been set aside for the annual "Open House" for high school students at North Carolina State University. The day is sponsored, jointly, by the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and the School of Forest Resources.

Having had the opportunity to participate in and observe these programs, from the beginning, I can tell you that the quality of the programs has improved each year, and the interest has been maintained. Unless you actually participate in one of these "Open House" affairs it is hard to realize just how much time and effort it required to make the day a worthwhile and happy one for our visitors.

Future Homemakers Attend District Rally

Future Homemakers of America No. 4 Rally was held at Enloe High School in Raleigh last Saturday, Oct. 3, from 10:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Over 1,000 future homemakers representing 12 counties were present. "Decisions - Our World" was the theme for the rally. Billy Johnson, Angier High Principal, was the morning guest speaker.

A fashion show and talent show by FHA girls were presented at the afternoon session.

Attending from Norlina High School local chapter were Mrs. Esther Delbridge, advisor; Mrs. Ophelia Davis, Misses Sandra Hendricks, Clementine Hargrove, Dell Mushaw and Carolyn Talley.

While we have the responsibility of "getting things ready" on campus, there are many other people, statewide, who play important roles - county and home economics agents, vocational agriculture teachers, high school principals, civic groups, banks, mothers, and dads. You can see, then, that the preparation for the day is a good example of coordinated effort on the part of many people; and this is as it should be.

See an automated demonstration on photosynthesis. Learn how the leaves of plants capture energy from the sun and convert it into chemical energy for the manufacture of food in the plant. The capturing of this light energy in the process of photosynthesis is responsible for all life on earth as we know it today.

Look inside the stomach of a steer, and view slides showing the microorganisms responsible for the digestive processes.

Take a look at aerial photographic equipment, maps and surveying instruments used in the preparation of a forest management plan. See wood products converted into paper.

Discover how scientists manipulate soils to remove impurities from water to reduce pollution and improve the environment.

Learn how bacteria and microorganisms are used to produce food. These are just a few of the many exhibits and demonstrations to be studied during the day.

The schedule: registration begins at 10:30 a. m. (buy your football ticket for $1) when you register; also, your lunch ticket, $1; 11:45-12:45, lunch; 1:30-3:00 visit exhibits, learn about admission requirements and visit designated points of interest; 4:00-7:30 free time; 7:30, football, North Carolina State University vs. East Carolina University.

Norlina 4-H Club Meets Monday Night

The Norlina 4-H Club met on Monday night when a demonstration on outdoor meals was given by the Norlina 4-H leaders, Mrs. L. O. Robertson, Jr., and Mrs. T. C. Currie on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Robertson.

Members were urged to hand in their record books by Oct. 15. Games were played by the 14 members, one new member, Donna Stegall, and two visitors attending.

STEW SALE

The Jerusalem Methodist Church will sponsor a Brunswick stew sale on Tuesday, Oct. 13, at the home of Mr. Van Coleman at Wise. The stew will be ready by noon and will sell for $1 per quart if customer furnishes container; otherwise $1.15 per quart. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the church. In case of bad weather, the stew will be postponed until a later date.

Lynn and Kerry King of Alexandria, Va., spent the weekend with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lloyd.

Winter Cover Crops Help Control Weeds

It will be difficult for farmers to ignore small grains this season. The advantages of growing these fall-planted crops - apparently are greater than ever.

Seeding has already begun, now that rains have finally come to most of the state. Some North Carolina farmers are planting the wheat, oats, barley or rye as cash crops, others as a supplement to feed supplies that have been shortened by corn blight and others as a soil conservation practice.

But an advantage farmers may be less aware of than all of these is the weed control effects of the winter crops.

At least three weeds that are problems under no-tillage conditions can be controlled by choking them out with small grains this fall and winter, according to Drs. W. M. Lewis and Harold Coble, extension weed control specialists at North Carolina State University.

They identified the three weeds as horseweed - also known as mare's tail - wild lettuce and cutleaf evening primrose. These pests are found in abundance throughout much of the state and present serious economic problems for many farmers. Horseweed, for example, reduced corn yields by 25 bushels per acre in a Wayne County extension test plot this year.

Herbicides normally used on corn, soybeans, cotton and other crops don't control these particular weeds. As herbicides have been increasingly substituted for mechanical cultivation, these weeds have grown more serious. This is particularly true, Lewis and Coble
