

A group of Junior Club Women are seeking former Governor Ronald Reagan's autograph while Mrs. Carolyn Dickerson and Mrs. Ann Powell, far right back, await their turn.

A group of Norlina Clubwomen who attended the state convention for Women's Clubs in Winston-Salem last week take a break in the activities.

Club Women Attend Annual Convention

Members of the Norlina Woman's Club and the Norlina Junior Woman's Club attended the 75th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs held in the Hyatt House and the Convention Center in Winston-Salem last week.

Attending the Diamond Jubilee Convention Celebration were Mrs. Alice Marie Robertson, president, and Mrs. Lou Traylor, of the Norlina Woman's Club and Mrs. Katie Fleming, president; Mrs. Margaret Ann Brame; Mrs. Barbara Cooke; Mrs. Carolyn Dickerson; and Mrs. Ann Powell of the Norlina Junior Woman's Club.

During opening meetings held on Monday, April 25, Mrs. Robertson, who also serves as State Conservation Department Chairman for the Federation, attended a luncheon for department chairmen at the Hyatt House which was hosted by Miss Emma Gay Stephenson, NCFWC Second Vice President.

As part of her duties as head of the conservation department Mrs. Robertson, on Tuesday, gave the introduction for the speaker from Kayo Oil Company of Chattanooga, Tenn., presented the conservation report, and made the awards to clubwomen for work done in this area.

Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Robertson, as presidents of their clubs, attended on Tuesday afternoon a reception honoring Mrs. Harry Wagner, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Brame, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Dickerson, Mrs. Powell, and Mrs. Traylor attended workshops on preventive medicine, leadership development, learning disabilities and ways and means.

Events throughout the convention week included an address by Mrs. Harry Wagner, Jr., of Phoenix, Arizona, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; awards presented in the areas of conservation, public affairs, education, the arts, home life and international affairs; and a special day of activities for Junior Clubwomen. Junior Clubwomen are those under the age of 36. For the 50th Annual Business Session of the Junior Section there were 506 present. Seven hundred and eighty-four were registered for the entire convention. Junior Day included, besides the business session, a springtime banquet with the world famous singer and guitarist, Oliver, providing the entertainment. It was at this event that Mrs. Katie Fleming represented District 14 as the Outstanding Junior Clubwoman of the Year.

Highlight of the convention and special surprise for Junior Fun Night was the appearance of the Honorable Ronald Reagan. The former governor of California and well-known politician made an informal visit to the Juniors gathered for a late night buzz session. It was the unexpected pleasure of Mrs. Brame, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Dickerson and Mrs. Powell to have an elevator encounter with Mr. Reagan and an extra handshake from the gentleman from California.

Mr. Reagan was the key speaker for the closing luncheon on Thursday. He received the members of the Federation along with Mrs. Molly Lambeth Johnson, president of the NCFWC. During his address he referred to women as "the civilizers of mankind." His speech centered on the threats to freedom that exist in government.

The final awards presentation found the Norlina Woman's Club the first runner up winner for the Eva McMillian Ross Award for development of working relationships with the members of a Junior Club. Mrs. Robertson accepted the certificate on behalf of her club.
