Soul City Jaycees Host District Meet

The District B Mid-East Region held its kick-off meeting at Soultech I, Soul City on Monday evening, June 13. The Soul City Jaycees hosted this meeting. Other Jaycee Chapters in the district include, Warren County, Henderson, Louisburg and Gillburg Prison.

The session was called to order at 8 p. m. by John Pegram, the District B Director from the Henderson Chapter. Butch Meeks (Warren Co.) led the pledge of allegiance and the Rev. Michael Williams (Soul City) gave the invocation.

Lewis Myers, president of the host chapter welcomed the district B Chapters to Soul City. He expressed a desire to see the five chapters work more closely together in providing programs for the members and residents of the district. He indicated that the Soul City Jaycees will call on the other chapters for guidance and direction. Myers then introduced the head table.

John Pegram reviewed the Parade of Chapters Program in which all chapters in the state participate. He noted that "District B has the potential to be one of the top districts in the state. B stands for BEST....lets prove it," he added.

Eddie Ellis, the state vice president for operations, and Roger Allen, the Mid-East Regional Director, both challenged the chapters in District B to work hard to support the district directors' goals. They stated that in helping your district director, you also help yourself. They spoke about the importance of attending the statewide and regional meetings.

The presidents of the local chapters reviewed their chapters' plans for 1977-78. From the reports presented by Paul Browning (Henderson), Ray Shearin (Warren County) and Myers, it seems certain that District B will offer a wide range of programs this year.

Following closing remarks by Pegram, the business meeting ended with the Jaycee creed led by Eddie Harrell (Soul City). The officers, directors, and members present then divided into three workshops—local presidents, internal operations, and external programs.

Cube stale bread and store it in the freezer. It's just right for stuffings, bread puddings and croutons, and can be rolled finer for bread crumbs.

Eighty-nine members of the Norlina High School graduating class received their diplomas during commencement exercises at the Norlina High School Gymnasium on Friday night. Principal Clint L. Hege, was presided over the program, announced the 38% of the students, the largest number in the school's history, had signified their intention to continue their education beyond the high school level.

C. Ray Pruette, chairman of the Physical Science Division of Louisburg College, was the commencement speaker. He was presented by Principal Hege.

Commencement is a time for mixed emotions, the speaker said. It is a time of gladness that one plateau in one's education has been reached but a time of sadness in the realization that friends must part. It is also a time of hope, a time of determination to strive for a successful life, he added.

Mr. Pruette stressed the value of reading good books for through reading we acquire knowledge, and wisdom is the application of knowledge, he said. This is truly a changing world, but virtues of truth, honor, compassion and faith still remain.

Children often feel that growing up is but a time of being told what they can not do, in home and in school, Mr. Pruette said, but there are four things that one can do, and if they will do these things their success in life is assured.

You can not do much about your face, the speaker said, but you can do much about your countenance. You can make it a pleasant countenance by good thoughts and a smile, which is God's greatest boon to mankind.

You can't control the height of your head from the ground but you can work to control the contents of your head.

The fourth and most important thing in your life, the speaker concluded, is to keep your faith in God, to do His will. He asked them to remember man does not break God's laws but is broken by God's law. Give your heart to Jesus Christ and accept him as your helper in all your endeavors and yours will be a good life.

Mr. Pruette illustrated his points with humorous anecdotes which brought smiles from his audience, and was given a standing ovation at the end of his address.

The invocation was given by Cindy King. Miss Patricia Brantley sang the "Theme from Mahogany," and was roundly applauded.

Lynn Tucker gave the salutatory address, reviewing the joys and sorrows of 12 years of high school, the sadness of parting, and the challenge offered by the future.

The valedictory address was given by Danylu Palmer, who spoke of graduation from Norlina High School as a most important night and asked the seniors to always remember the debt of gratitude they owed their parents for their love and sacrifice. This love and sacrifice could only be repaid by each student doing those things which are honorable, just and true as they continue life's journey.

Diplomas were awarded by Principal Clint L. Hege, J. R. Peeler, Superintendent of Schools, and by Ernest Turner, Chairman of the Board of Education. Mary Lou Traylor was presented her diploma by her father, Leigh Traylor, who is also a member of the Board of Education.

"Go Forth" was sung by the Blue Wave Chorus under the direction of Howard Lee Stultz, and was roundly applauded, as were the addresses of the Salutatorian and the Valedictorian.

The benediction was given by Thomas Bullock.

The Processional and the Recessional were performed by the Brass Choir of the Blue Wave Chorus, composed of Chuck Ellington, pianist; Lynn Tucker and Glenda Stultz, organists; Thomas Bullock, Derrick Cheston, Carol Montague, John Foster, David Rowlett, Oita Cheston and Larry Brown. The Brass Choir is also co-located by Howard Lee Stultz.

Danylu Palmer graduated as a high honor student. Honor students were Lynn Tucker, Shirley Harris, Patricia Henderson, Deborah Hicks, Connie Montague, Debra Seward, Mary Lou Traylor and Gary Holtzman. Sponsors were Mrs. Bessie R. Hicks, Miss Sandra Russell and Howard L. Stultz.

Roosevelt Alston was assistant principal. Marshals were Patricia Hicks, Chief; Oita Cheston, Tommie Craft, Freda Hight, all of the 11th grade; Chuck Ellington, Wendy Curtis and Debra White, all of the 10th grade; and Derrick Cheston, Laurie Hayes and Michael Norwood, all of the ninth grade.

Class officers were Thomas Bullock, president; Anthony Montague, vice president; Cindy King, secretary; and Connie Montague, treasurer.
