The presentation will be made at the 58th Annual Meeting of the National Federation of State High School Association in Milwaukee.

For the past 25 years, Simon Terrell and North Carolina high school athletics have enjoyed a close and continuous relationship highlighted by large strides forward in the scope and success of the state's interscholastic sports program. A native of Warrenton, Terrell graduated in 1941 from John Graham High School where he was a talented athlete in football, basketball and baseball. Following a tour in the Merchant Marines (1943-46), Terrell entered the University of North Carolina where he played basketball and graduated in 1951 with a B.A. degree in education.

Today the NCHSAA serves 35 high schools and sponsors eighteen sports programs for more than 70,000 young boys and girls each year.

In addition to working on a number of national athletic councils, Terrell has been a member of the Football Rules Committee of the National Federation, the Governor's Task Force on disruption in the schools and the Sports Medicine Commission.
