Carolina Sportswear Company Presented Safety Award

Russell Poe, coordinator of the Safety Division of the N. C. Department of Labor, presented a safety award to Carolina Sportswear Company Tuesday morning with more than 200 employees in attendance.
 Carolina Sportswear Company was among 235 industrial and service establishments in North Carolina to be awarded the Certificate of Safety Achievement.

The Safety Certificate was given for a reduction in the number of lost time or disabling injuries.
 Commissioner of Labor John C. Brooks said "all the winners are to be commended for the superior records they have compiled. The program has proven to be an effective stimulus to job safety improvements and performance."
 The program is sponsored by Capitol Associated Industries, Inc. of which Carolina Sportswear Company is a member.

 John Andrews, Carolina Sportswear Company plant manager, accepted the award on behalf of the employees. "The people earned the award through their care in working on their jobs at Carolina Sportswear Company," Andrews said.
